Plot To Steal Cuban Airliner Erupts In Gunfire

Nixon Uses Halloween Theme To Accuse Kennedy Of Trickery

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon motorcaded through Chicago's suburbs Saturday, accusing Sen. John F. Kennedy of offering all sorts of Halloween treats that the people would find were just tricks.

The Republican presidential nominee noted that Monday is Halloween and said "It is a good time for America to take a look at some of the hobgoblins Mr. Kennedy has been conjuring up."

"One by one he has let them loose, trying to frighten America into believing what is not true; trying to scare up a few votes," said Nixon in a speech prepared for the big Park Forest shopping center.

"But this Halloween is a failure. America does not respond to his wails of woe because America long ago learned the lesson Halloween. And that lesson is that you cannot really be scared by something that isn't there."

Nixon's 105-mile route took him through areas where he hopes to pile up votes to offset the big Democratic margin expected in Chicago itself. It was Nixon's last bid for Illinois' important 27 electoral votes.

Nixon's aides said police estimated at least 130,000 persons lined Nixon's route or attended his speeches.

The GOP candidate obviously was stepped up by President Eisenhower's strong endorsement of him and equally strong attack on Kennedy in a nationally televised speech Friday night.

Nixon said at O'Hare Airport on his arrival in the Chicago area that some Democrats were complaining about the speech, saying the President "was too hard on our boy."

"But after all the lies Harry Truman has told about me, he has the right to tell the truth about Jack Kennedy," asserted Nixon to a roar from the crowd.

Nixon said the treat offered by Kennedy would cost $15 billion a year more in federal spending, but that the people would find they had been tricked into paying higher taxes or higher prices if any such program were put into effect, he asserted.

Among Kennedy's hobgoblins, said Nixon, were statements that the United States is entering a recession, that Republicans don't

Minister Says Religious Issue Should Be Argued

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The president of the National Council of Churches said Saturday he thinks religious issues should be discussed openly during the presidential campaign.

Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, Baptist minister of St. Louis, told a group of reporters that: "If we do not discuss these matters on an intelligent level, then fanatics and crackpots will grab the ball and run away with it."

"Speaking as an individual," Dr. Dahlberg said, "I rather welcome the vigorous debate that is going on in the field of Catholic-Protestant relations this year. These issues have been driven underground too long."

He said high-level discussions will help to better relations between those "two great groups of Christendom.

"And there are some read differences of convictions on the part of sincere adherents of both faiths.

"Such questions as representation at the Vatican; tax support of parochial schools; population controls; separation of church and state—these are questions that go deep down in our American culture. We should not avoid them."

Kennedy Stumps Philadelphia, Lists His New Frontiers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy brought his "New Frontier" campaign to historic Valley Forge Saturday night and said steps must be taken to meet the "most revolutionary period of our existence."

The Democratic presidential nominee told a $50-a-plate dinner at the nearby battleground made famous by Gen. George Washington's tattered Continental Army that Americans fought in 1776 on a "cold bitter frontier" for the cause of freedom.

"We are moving into the most challenging, the most dynamic, the most revolutionary period of our existence," he said. The next 10 years will be "years of unprecedented tasks for the next president of the United St tes," he added.

Kennedy stumped through the suburbs that ring Philadelphia, most of them strongly Republican, in a day that covered 130 miles and a half dozen rallies.

During the day he was greeted by many Republicans. In Jenkintown a number of Nixon posters bobbed above the crowd.

"This is why I am here today," Kennedy said. "I came to convert some of these Republicans."

At the first of a series of shopping center talks, he said that considering the state of the world "I don't want to play with thin margins. I don't think that any candidate for the office of president in 1960 should go to people with anything but the truth, and then the people can decide what they want."

Kennedy added, "I don't believe that they have understood the kind of revolutionary world in which we live."

In spite of rain, Kennedy drew big, enthusiastic crowds as he stumped Philadelphia's outskirts. But in the early stage there was no such massive outpourings as he experienced Friday in the distressed hard coal areas to the north.

As he moved through the crowds, Kennedy showed the effect on his right hand and arm of a thoroughly bruising workout Friday and again Saturday.

In nearby Chester Saturday morning it was thought for a short while that something rather more serious than scratches and bruises had befallen Kennedy's hand, if not the arm as well.

As admirers flocked to Kennedy's car, some grabbing his hand, others his arm, it appeared that both were wrenched. Reporters were told, however, that no real harm had been done. If the candidate winced, it was from the strain of so much handshaking and arm-pumping. Kennedy kept his right hand in his pocket much of the time, favoring it as much as possible.

But he used both hands to make a neat catch of a watermelon that an admirer threw to him in his car.

Most of the suburban area is strongly Republican, the pattern found in most big city areas. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has followed a strategy of trying to build a sort of GOP dyke in these suburbs in an effort to contain

Car Crash Kills Six Teen-Agers

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—One of those nothing-to-do Friday nights ended in tragedy for six Omaha teen-agers. Five were killed outright Friday night when their car left a parkway and crashed into a tree. The sixth died of injuries Saturday.

The latest victim was Joanne Eymann, 17, senior at Notre Dame Academy here. She died in an Omaha hospital.

Killed outright were Robert W. Gregg, 17; Gus George Braun, 19; Eileen Marie Micek, 17; Carol Hollars, 16; and Joanne Margaret Janousek, 17. All the girls were Notre Dame students. Gregg was a high school senior and Braun a construction worker.

There were no witnesses, but police said the car must have been traveling between 75 and 85 miles an hour when it mounted a curb, skidded 46 feet, sideswiped a tree, and continued 36 feet farther before it rammed another tree, pinning all six in the car.

BULLETIN

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A plane carrying about 48 persons crashed and burned Saturday night at the Toledo Express Airport, the Lucas County sheriff reported.

Casualties were not reported immediately.

The Weather Bureau operator at the airport said the plane, which he believed was carrying members of the California Polytechnic football team, went down in "zero visibility."

It was a chartered plane, he said.

Marine Landing In Guantanamo Demonstrates U.S. Intentions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever its real intention, the United States made a show of force in the classic pattern Saturday when the Navy sent 1,450 Marines to its Guantanamo base in Cuba for the weekend.

At a time when Cuba is becoming increasingly a Soviet pawn in East-West power politics, the Marine landing—even though officially not related to the Cuban tensions—is expected in diplomatic and military quarters here to have these results:

1. To demonstrate to the Communist - oriented government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro that the United States intends to make normal use of its base rights at Guantanamo despite Cuban attacks on the 57-year-old treaty establishing those rights.

2. To remind Castro that the United States has in readiness forces to deal with any emergency which Castro might decide to create.

3. To show, by withdrawing the Marines on Monday as promised, that the United States is not interested in building up at Guantanamo the military strength which might be considered useful if this country were planning aggressive action against Cuba.

The Eisenhower administration has determined to defend Guantanamo should Castro's military forces attack it. The decision to fight if attacked was announced by the chief of naval operations, Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, earlier this month. Actually top officials do not expect an attack and do not see a military conflict between Cuba and the United States as the true danger in the crisis.

Nor is direct Soviet intervention, as once threatened by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, considered a real danger. In fact, State Department officials are intrigued by some evidence that Khrushchev wants to place a distinct limit on his commitment to Castro.

Interesting is the way in which Moscow handled Saturday a Khrushchev interview a week ago with a group of Cuban newspapermen. A report published Friday in the semiofficial Havana newspaper Revolucion put the emphasis on Khrushchev's statement that Soviet missiles were ready to assist Cuba if needed, though it would be better to aviod using rockets.

The Soviet news agency Tass, by contrast, quoted Khrushchev as saying that "Promised rocket aid to Cuba should be considered symbolic." Tass also reported Khrushchev would prefer his statement "regarding aid to Cuba in case of armed aggression against that country" to be considered symbolic.

This change of tone from Khrushchev's threats of last summer struck diplomats here as another indication of a possible change of tactics by the Soviet leader.

Having campaigned with bitter words against President Eisenhower since the U2 spy plane incident last May, Khrushchev may now be shifting course toward a new target—that is, a summit conference with the next American president sometime next year.

Man Charged With Coors' Murder Arrested In Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — One of the FBI's most-wanted criminals, Joseph Corbett Jr., was arrested Saturday in a Vancouver hotel by FBI agents and police.

He had a gun in his room but gave up without a struggle.

Corbett, 32, is charged with the murder of wealthy brewer Adolph Coors III, who was shot twice in the back after leaving home for his brewery office in Golden, Colo., last Feb. 9.

Corbett's trail led from Denver, Colo., to Baltimore, Md., and then into Winnipeg and Toronto, Canada, before his capture here.

FBI agents told Vancouver police Saturday morning Corbett was believed to be in this British Columbia port city. They provided a description of the car he was thought to be driving.

A young constable, Jack Marshall, remembered seeing such an automobile in front of a hotel here several days ago. The landlady identified Corbett from his picture when FBI agents and police went there.

The officers tried to enter the room with a master key but were balked by a night latch.

They then learned Corbett was expecting delivery of a typewriter. Corbett opened the door when they rapped and said they were delivery men. He was met with drawn guns and meekly surrendered.

He had escaped from a California prison in August, 1955, after serving nearly five years of a term for second degree murder in the 1950 gunshot slaying of an air force sergeant.

A hat found at the scene of Coors' slaying and other evidence located in Corbett's Denver apartment linked him with the brewer's death.

Corbett faces state charges of murder in Colorado in connection with Coors' death and federal charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in that state.

Coors, wealthy Golden, Colo., industrialist and brewery head, vanished en route to work last Feb. 9. His station wagon, engine still running, was found on a narrow bridge on a country road near his Rocky Mountain foothills home. The bridge rail was blood-flecked, and Coors' cap and glasses were found in a stream below.

A spokesman for the Coors' family said a note asking $500,000 ransom was received, but no contact was ever made with a kidnaper.

JOLT FOR HOUSING AUTHORITY

Cloudbursts Deluge Texas, Eight Drown

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Furious flash floods spawned by a series of cloudbursts in central Texas washed automobiles from roads Friday night and drowned at least eight persons.

One other person is missing and feared dead.

Rains up to 10 inches battered the state capital area, apparently in the center of a storm formation that extended 50 miles north and east, 75 miles west and 100 miles south.

The Weather Bureau reported total damage in Austin at $2.5 million. More than 300 automobiles suffered damage. About 3,500 trunk line telephones were out of service, including all those to the city airport.

Lands At Key West With Guard Dead, Pilot, Copilot, Boy Wounded

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban passenger airliner with a wounded pilot at the controls landed here Saturday after a plot to steal the plane in flight burst into gunfire.

Aboard the government-owned Aerovias Q Airlines twin-engine plane when it reached Key West were 37 persons, including 34 passengers and a crew of three. The body of a military guard lay riddled with bullets.

The pilot, copilot and a boy, 13, were wounded and the guard was shot dead shortly after the plane left Havana on a regularly scheduled flight to the Isle of Pines, almost due south of Havana and a few miles off the southwest coast of Cuba.

Military prisoners frequently are transported to the island by plane, but authorities said there were none aboard the aircraft.

Immigration authorities took charge and declined to release names of those aboard. But it was learned that pilot Candelario Delgado was shot in the right arm above the elbow and copilot Gabriel Carrasco had a superficial wound in the back of his head. Both were treated at Monroe General Hospital and released to U.S. officials.

The boy, who was shot through both thighs, was Argelio Hernandez of Havana. He and his parents planned to return to Havana Saturday night.

The body of the military guard, Castula Acosta, was being sent to Havana aboard the same plane. Some sources said Acosta was killed by his own riot gun, and a witness said the body was "full of holes."

Cuban authorities said another plane would be sent with a crew to take back the ill-fated airliner, which was undamaged except for bullet holes in the pilot's compartment.

Edward Ahrens, district director of the U.S. Immigration Service at Miami, said the plane was Flight 905 and in addition to the 34 passengers had a pilot, copilot, stewardess and the guard, listed as an extra crewman.

Ahrens said the pilot related that the plane was airborne at 7:25 a.m. and 5 or 10 minutes later the copilot jumped from his seat, grabbed the guard and shoved a gun into the pilot's back.

The pilot said he was told to swing around and fly to Key West and that he replied, "You think I'm crazy?"

The remark touched off the shooting and after he was wounded the pilot headed for Key West, he related.

Ahrens said that during the shooting the guard was killed.

"Only nine persons apparently were involved," Ahrens declared, "and the 26 others want to go back to Cuba. Two others not involved are happy to have landed in the United States and are asking permission to stay."

Ahrens declined to say if firearms were aboard but conceded that "a number of shots were fired." A Cuban doctor aboard gave medical aid to the wounded.

Ahrens said parties involved would be taken to Miami over the weekend, but he declined to release any names. He said the body of the guard was turned over to the U.S. Public Health Service at Key West.

Some persons aboard the plane told reporters that the guard was killed by his own riot gun.

Former Truman Tax Official Free On Parole

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—T. Lamar Caudle, 56, former Truman administration tax official, was released on parole Saturday from the federal prison here where he said he had been a "political prisoner."

The tall, energetic attorney boarded a plane immediately for his home at Wadesboro, N. C. He said he would go back to practicing law there.

As he boarded the plane, Caudle told newsmen, "Actually, I was a political prisoner." He did not elaborate.

Caudle was head of the Justice Department's tax division under former President Harr S. Truman. He spent about six months at the federal correctional institution here on a two-year sentence imposed for trying to block the prosecution of a St. Louis shoe manufacturer, Irving Sachs, for income tax evasion.

EXPENSIVE VISIT

PARIS (AP)—The Foreign Ministry says Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to France last March and April cost this country $312,000.

Castro Fans Fever Of Invasion, Calls For Calm In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro appealed Saturday for calm in Cuba but warned that any invaders would be thrown back by his expanding civilian militia.

The Cuban Prime minister did not refer directly either to the United States or the Soviet Union during a one-hour televised speech which was set against the background of these events involving the two great powers:

1. A weekend visit of 1,450 U.S. Marines to Guantanamo naval base for rest and recreation and a reported concentration of U. S. warships near Puerto Rico. Government controlled newspapers used these two incidents to heighten "invasion fever" here. In Washington, the Marines' landing was seen as a classic show of force.

2. Publication by the Soviet news agency Tass of a statement by Premier Khrushchev that Soviet rocket support for Cuba must be regarded as "symbolic." Some Americans in Moscow took this as an attempt by Khrushchev to put a check on Castro by pulling the rug from under him slightly.

3. A report in a Cairo magazine quoting Castro as saying that he and his government would not be such "idiots" as to attempt to seize the Guantanamo base by force.

In his speech Saturday, Castro dealt with his growing armed forces. But when he said Cuba has arms to defend itself, he did not say where the arms are coming from.

"With every week that passes we will have thousands more organized defenders in Cuba," Castro said. "Our enemies know, too, that with every day that passes their hopes for successfully invading Cuba are less."

He spoke at the first graduation ceremony for 55 new army lieutenants trained at the nearby Managua military base. He told the TV audience the base also is training 500 leaders for Cuba's civilian militia—a workers' army that can be seen drilling in cities and towns throughout the island.

"If our enemies attack us soon, it will be bad for them," he said, "but if they wait it will be worse."

But he warned Cubans against becoming victims of their own enthusiasm.

"Every man and every woman wants to take up a rifle," he said. "But it is important that you all stay at your work—that production be maintained in Cuba."

Appealing for calm in the face of invasion threats, he said: "We will need only part of our forces to deal with anyone who comes."

The Cuban press and radio assailed the United States and accused Washington of sending in the Marines to provide a pretext for an attack on Cuba.

The semiofficial newspaper Revolucion appealed to all Latin America "to battle against imperialist provocations" and said messages of support had come from student and labor groups in half a dozen Latin-American countries.

Three Carpenters Officials Found Guilty Of Bribery

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three top officials of the Carpenters Union were convicted Friday night of bribing an Indiana highway official in quick-profit right-of-way deals, climaxing a highway scandal case that dated back nearly three years.

Maurice A. Hutcheson, president of the 850,000-member international union; O. William Blaier, vice president, and Frank M. Chapman, treasurer, displayed no emotion as Criminal Court Judge M. Walter Bell read the verdict.

Bell ordered a presentence investigation and set Nov. 28 for sentencing. The conviction carries a 2-14-year prison sentence and a maximum fine of $15,000 each.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated less than three hours before finding all three guilty of bribing and conspiracy to bribe Harry A. Doggett of Greensburg, former right-of-way purchasing director for the Indiana Highway Department.

The three were charged with giving Doggett a $15,000 check for advance information about proposed routes for highways in Wayne and Lake counties. The prosecution contended they bought land along the proposed routes then sold it to the state, making $31,000 profit.

Finch-Tregoff Jury Recesses

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Finch murder trial jurors listened to rereading of testimony Saturday morning, then recessed and returned to their hotel for the remainder of the weekend.

Rereading of Miss Tregoff's testimony was expected to resume Monday.

Puerto Rican Marchers Protest Letters Forbidding Catholics Vote For Marin Party

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—A silent parade of 400 to 500 persons marched before the residence of Archbishop James P. Davis Saturday carrying black flags to protest pastoral letters forbidding Roman Catholics to vote for Gov. Luis Munoz Marin's political party.

Before the march, the Spanish-language newspaper El Mundo was in print with a statement from the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Victor M. Nazario, chancellor of the Ponce diocese, that any Catholic "preaching or publicly supporting" the Popular Democratic party "not only commits sins but also can be excommunicated (cut off from the Church's sacraments.)"

The three Catholic bishops in the island commonwealth have issued two pastoral letters assailing Munoz Marin's party. They said anyone voting for the party will be guilty of sin. The chancellor's mention of excommunication was the first to go that far.

The orderly procession stirred little emotion as it wound through the narrow streets of old San Juan where sidewalks were crowded with Saturday shoppers.

There were occasional shouts of "Shame, shame!" Some spectators waved to the marchers and cheered.

A small truck with a loudspeaker drove ahead of the parade procession, solemnly droning over and over:

"This is not a demonstration against the Catholic Church. This is a protest against the pastoral letter. The pastoral letter is an infringement on the freedom of mind of the citizens."

The three bishops' assault on the political party, whose label Munoz Marin carries in his bid for re-election next month, is based on what they call the party's anti-Christian attitude connected with birth control and sterlization of mental defectives.

The birth control law never has been put to use, the Munoz Marin administration says, and the sterilization law was later repealed.

The Rt. Rev. A. Ervine Swift, Episcopal bishop of Puerto Rico, issued a pastoral letter taking issue with the Catholic bishops' position. He declared that democracy "assumes the separation of church and state, and any attempt by either side to control the other is to the ultimate detriment of both."

The letter came out strongly against Catholic Church views on birth control and sterilization.

"The sexual life of a married man and woman is of the very essence of holy matrimony and is not to be confined to the procreation of children," the bishop asserted.

He added that the question of how many children a family can "intelligently and economically" provide for is a matter of thoughtful planning.

Two Lads Take Car 20 Miles Before Dawn - Without Lights

MITCHELL, Ill. (AP)—A couple of motorized Huck Finns, bored with "the same old routine," took a 20-mile jaunt in their father's car through the metropolitan St. Louis area before dawn today—without lights.

Marc Peterson, 9, and his brother, John 8, started out about 1 a.m. from their South St. Louis home.

Marc was the chauffeur—Johnny's right arm is in a cast. Marc said the only trouble he had was finding the light switch. As a matter of fact, he never did find it.

Marc told police he drove from South St. Louis to Chain of Rocks bridge without lights—and without incident. He said he passed four police cars en route. When they arrived at the bridge, Marc said, he paid the 25-cent toll without exciting any notice from the attendant.

The youngster said he was blinded by bright lights of trucks on the bridge, but waited until they passed, then drove on. The boys didn't arouse any attention until they reached the intersection of U.S. Highways 66 and 111 near Mitchell.

Marc and John were finally stopped by state troopers. Officers took them to the station and notified their startled parents, who retrieved them about 4 a.m.

Earth, Stars and Man (10) Battle of the Century

by Don Oakley and John Lane

In fiction, coincidences are not allowed. But in the story of the search for the origin of life, coincidence has played a major role.

In 1858, Charles Darwin received a manuscript from a naturalist working in Malaya, one Alfred Russel Wallace. It duplicated Darwin's findings almost point by point.

Darwin wanted to publish Wallace's paper and disclaim all credit for himself. It was the only honorable way. His friends, the botanist Joseph Hooker and the geologist Charles Lyell, would not hear of it. They urged Darwin to write a brief summary to be jointly presented with Wallace's before the Linnean Society of London.

It was not until the next year, however, when Darwin at last brought out his Origin of Species, that the storm broke. For a scientific work, it caused an amazing sensation. The first edition was sold out on the day of publication. "Evolution" was on everyone's lips, although the idea had been discussed long before Darwin. And, although Darwin had referred to man in only one sentence in his book, people drew their own conclusions. "Monkeys and men" became synonymous with evolution.

The leading thinkers rapidly took sides. Staunchest defender of the new faith was the biologist Thomas Henry Huxley. It was in many ways a faith, for much in Darwin's theory (as with any new theory) was as yet unsupported by direct observations.

A major skirmish was the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in 1860. Huxley was asked whether it was through his grandfather or his grandmother he traced his descent from a monkey. Admiral Robert Fitzroy, former captain of the Beagle, brandished a Bible at Huxley and no doubt rued the day he had allowed the young Charles Darwin to set foot on his ship.

There was one big hole in his theory that Darwin was never able to fill. That was how organisms could change. What was the mechanism that allowed offspring to differ from their parents? Darwin never knew that the answer had already been found in a little monastery garden in Austria.

Cartoonist, Author To Lecture Monday

The first lecturer of the MacMurray College 1960-61 lecture series is the noted cartoonist, author, and artist, Don Freeman. He will speak at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 31, in Annie Merner Chapel at MacMurray. The lecture is free to the public.

Mr. Freeman's program, which is called "Sketchbook Revue," features impressions of Hollywood and Broadway, the story of the development of children's picture books, and an amazing demonstration which combines music with speed drawings.

Freeman is the author of 15 books and has illustrated more than 50 stories for many other famous writers, including William Saroyan, Brooks Atkinson and James Thurber. One of his own books, "Pet of the Met," is considered a modern classic and received the "Outstanding Children's Book of the Year" award, presented by the New York Herald-Tribune.

He has worked in Hollywood at UPA Animated Cartoons studio, and helped to create a story for the adventures of nearsighted Mr. Magoo. Don Freeman is also a serious painter and many art museums have his lithographs in their permanent collections. He was recently acclaimed for his backstage sketches of Julie Andrews and Rex Harrison in "My Fair Lady."

Freeman's satire on army life from a GI's point of view, "It Shouldn't Happen to a Dog," written during World War II, was very popular with both servicemen and civilians, and spread his fame throughout the world. Also an actor, Don Freeman appeared for seven months on Broadway in Saroyan's award winning "The Beautiful People."

Honor Mrs. Strawn On 97th Birthday

One of Jacksonville's oldest citizens, Mrs. Mary Strawn of 615 South East street, reached another birthday and became 97 years of age, Oct. 26.

Cards and letters have been coming to her, and on that day cards, letters, flowers and gifts became a regular shower. Before she had time to open everything she was taken by her daughter, Mrs. Cora Plouer to Buck and Lou's for a fried chicken dinner.

In the afternoon she was guest of honor at a little party in her daughter, Miss Hazel Strawn's room at Passavant hospital. Besides the family several nurses enjoyed the delicious angel food cake baked and served by Mrs. Plouer, and as a special delight listened to little four year old great-great granddaughter Julie Gillespie sing "Happy Birthday, Dear Grandma."

Later in the evening Homer Baptist took Mrs. Strawn to the annual Democratic potluck supper, where she not only enjoyed a most delicious supper but found great pleasure in meeting friends and listening to the several candidates. A crowning honor to her day was the singing of "Happy Birthday" by the entire audience.

Miss Hazel Strawn, precinct committeewoman, also received special commendation for doing such a splendid job in spite of ill health. Besides these two daughters Mrs. Strawn is also blessed with another daughter, Mrs. Percy Jones of Tuscola, who because of illness in her family, was unable to come at this time.

Mrs. Strawn has remarkably good health, attends church regularly, has Bible reading every day and reads the Jacksonville Journal. She said she is grateful for her many friends and especially to God for His wonderful blessings.

Colleges Seeking Eastern Students At Conference

President Gordon E. Michalson and Director of Admissions, Spencer Lane, of MacMurray College will participate in an unusual three-day conference to point out new opportunities for high school students concerned about their admission to college which will be held in New York City Nov. 15, 16, 17.

The conference, "New Horizons in College Selection," will bring the presidents of 12 midwestern, southern and western colleges to the New York area with their directors of admissions for five afternoon and six evening sessions with the students, their parents and guidance counselors. The sessions will be held in New York City, Long Island, Westchester, northern New Jersey and Fairfield County, Conn.

The purpose of the conference is to supplement the efforts of high school guidance counselors to have students and their parents include non-eastern as well as eastern institutions in their college planning. The need for doing so is made evident, the counselors point out, by the increasing number of able students from this area who are rejected by eastern colleges swamped by admissions applications from all over the country.

Wilson Estate In Cass Sold Friday For $245,360

VIRGINIA—An extra large crowd attended one of the largest sales of farm lands in the history of Cass County Friday morning at 10 o'clock in Virginia. Middendorf Brothers of Jacksonville were auctioneers for the 640 acres of farm and city residence lands which were part of the estate of the late Elizabeth Lee Wilson.

Total money value of the sale was $245,360. The property was sold by the heirs of the Wilson estate: George W. Rexroat, Verna L. Rexroat, and William M. Petefish.

Jokisch offered a total of $104,520 for the 200 acres which he purchased in two tracts. One 120 acre tract sold for $551 per acre ($66,120) and one 80 acre tract sold for $480 per acre ($38,400). The land was described as tillable farm land.

B. O. Springer offered an even $500 per acre for his 120 acre tract for $60,000.

The 320 acre tract of rolling ground purchased by Hierman and Illias was bought on a bid of $237 per acre for a total sale price of $75,840.

James Bean purchased one city residence, a two story house located on East Illini Street in Virginia, and surrounding lots for $5,000.

The sale was conducted at the Cass County court house in Virginia. Attorney for the owners was C. G. Colburn of Virginia.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One nice happenstance of this year's TV season is that it has returned Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes to our shores.

The talented twosome are doing a situation comedy, "Peter Loves Mary," which brightens the home tube on Wednesday nights. Though both have roots in Hollywood, they are confirmed Easterners and make their home in New Rochelle, N.Y. So what drew them back to these parts?

"How do you spell residuals backwards?" Peter replied.

Spelled slaudiser or residuals, that is the magic word that connotes the fortune that can be gained from a successful TV series. It is reason enough for the Hayeses to spend the fall and winter months in our midst, grinding out celluloid for Four Star Productions.

"After Mary and I finished six months of a daytime show on ABC, we decided to take a year off," Peter said. "And we did. We traveled. We cruised on our boat. I wrote a book.

"How did I bear up, doing nothing? Badly. It wasn't so bad when the weather was good and I could play golf or go on the boat. But when winter fell, I had nothing to do but stay indoors and stare at the walls."

When Four Star's Tom McDermott asked them to do a pilot film for a TV series, Pete was ready. But on his return East, he told Mary, "You can forget about the series. The pilot was awful."

He proved a poor prophet; the series was snapped up in a hurry. I asked him how it differs from the flood of other situation comedies.

"That's not a nice question," he replied. But he went on to explain: "Can you tell me what Ozzie Nelson does for a living on his show? I thought not. Nobody knows, not even Ozzie.

"I think we've got a good situation because you know what I do. I'm an entertainer, and so is Mary. The conflict comes because I like the show biz life, and Mary goes for the garden club, P-T-A bit."

But the proof of the pudding, he said, is with the writers and the supporting cast. Even if the elements jell and the ratings climb, Peter and Mary won't be resettling here.

"The TV plot isn't taken from life," he explained. "We both are nuts about our home."

Atom-Powered Sub Armed With Polaris Missiles Will Soon Start Prowling Seas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometime next month a nuclear powered submarine will slip her mooring cables and turn seaward, destination top secret.

At the moment the George Washington slides below the Atlantic's surging swells, a surprise missile attack on the United States may become for the enemy a form of national suicide.

As the George Washington turns toward her patrol station somewhere on the watery perimeter of the Communist world, she will have in her 128-foot midsection more explosive power than was contained in all the bombs dropped in World War II—16 Polaris missiles, armed and each capable of hurling a hydrogen warhead 1,380 miles.

In the blue-black deeps of the world's seas, the George Washington will be a submerged missile launching pad almost immune to detection and destruction.

Before the end of the year the George Washington will be followed by two more ballistic missile submarines, the Patrick Henry and the Robert E. Lee.

By January 1963 there should be at least 19 of these underwater Leviathans prowling the seas.

The U. S. Navy figures that with 45 of these missile submarines, each costing $100 million and each with an operating life of 15 to 20 years, the United States can guarantee obliteration of any enemy foolish enough to attempt an attack.

The waters which cover 70 per cent of the earth's surface will be their maneuver area, and 85 per cent of the Communist world will be within range of their Polaris missiles.

Even now the Navy is working on an improved version of the Polaris which will have a 2,500-mile range. No place on earth then will be beyond reach.

Since each of the Polaris subs can remain at sea for many months, operating on a piece of enriched uranium about the size of a golf ball, her time on combat station will be limited only by her food supply and the endurance of her crew.

To eliminate the necessity for return trips to the United States for resupply and crew replacement, submarine tenders will be stationed at a Scottish port under an agreement now being negotiated.

The Polaris-type submarine, however, is not a U. S. monopoly. Navy intelligence has reason to believe that the Soviet Union is on the verge of sending such vessels to sea, and Premier Khrushchev himself declared Oct. 20 that the Russians have nuclear missile submarines. He said, however, they would not be sent to patrol off American shores.

For a long time now there has been circulating inside the Navy a policy guidance paper which argues, mostly by implication, that it is folly to build fixed position bases for either aircraft or missiles.

SAC's air bases are known and so are the Air Force's underground launching pads now under construction.

While the Air Force plans to make the Minuteman missile mobile by placing it on railroad platforms, the Navy points out that this will still draw the weight of an enemy attack against the densely populated United States.

The Navy contends that as the Russians gain in missile strength, they will be able to launch simultaneous, pinpoint missile attacks against fixed U.S. bases on a world-wide scale.

Thus, the Navy says, the United States must create a mobile weapons system almost immune to discovery and destruction.

The policy paper observes that an atomic warhead with an explosive equivalent of 6½ million tons of TNT can destroy an underground missile site if it lands within half a mile.

Many Foreign Students In U.S. Learn Some Bitter Lessons

Editor's Note—There are 50,000 foreign students in America but some of the lessons they are learning are bitter ones. A Korean, who was a journalism student here, offers some valuable advice.

By CHOON WHA LEE
Written for The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Wherever he saw an "apartment for rent" sign, the African student knocked. The answer never changed: no vacancy.

An Arab, in America studying political science, wrote a letter to a newspaper disagreeing with its claim that Arab nationalism and communism were identical. A few weeks later the student received a letter from the State Department telling him to cease all such political activities or face deportation.

These are extreme ideas of what some of the 50,000 foreign students in the United States are learning.

Millions of dollars are being spent to send these students here from overseas. It will all be wasted if instead of learning democracy they find bigotry and censorship that will make them enemies instead of friends of the United States when they return home. America can do better.

In many instances it has. A survey by an Indian journalism student at Syracuse University where I also studied, Saaduddeen M. Saleem, found that what impressed foreign students most about Americans was their friendliness.

But for some it can be lonely, frustrating, humiliating.

For instance, the African student I mentioned. It took him three weeks to get an apartment. The shock was too much. For the rest of the year he lived a completely hermitic life, not going out to one restaurant or theater.

And he was no ordinary student. He was a government employe and $6,500 had been spent on him for this one year of training.

Why should Americans be concerned about the impressions foreign students have of America?

For one reason, many of the students will some day be in the high echelons of their respective countries. The attitudes they assume toward America today may determine if their attitudes will be favorable to American interests tomorrow when they are leaders.

Another point is that America today needs and wants to be understood in its true light. This is why millions of dollars are spent abroad each year to inform the people of the world about what America and Americans are really like.

One of the very best ways to show the foreign student the American way of life is to invite him into your home. It gives him a chance to know Americans more closely and above all, it gives him the rare opportunity to enjoy the family atmosphere all students miss.

Here are some dos and don'ts.

Understanding and tactfulness are the rules of thumb.

During the meal, restrain yourself from asking him too many questions to satisfy your curiosity. No sooner than he lifts a fork to enjoy the home-cooked meal than the host and hostess bombard him with questions.

It's a good idea to know beforehand if your guest's religion permits him to eat meat.

Don't ask him questions that may offend him. Never ask, for example ,"Do you have elephants in your country?" "Do you have trains, planes and supermarkets like ours?" One student said such questions sounded as an insult intended to show advanced American culture. "They think we live in the stone age," he said.

MacMurray Threatre Season Opens With Gay "Royal Gambit"

By Suzanne Robbins

The MacMurray College Theatre opened its season with a performance of Hermann Gressieker's "Royal Gambit." This modern German play in a fine translation by George White concerns the life of Henry VIII and his six wives.

The title is taken from the game of chess, where gambit denotes a player's voluntary sacrifice of a piece to gain an advantage in position. The king, Henry VIII, moves his wives like pawns on a chess board to further his ambitious designs. "Royal Gambit" is an old story treated in a modern way.

The author has obviously made use of the Nazi ideologies of the 1930s, and to this reviewer many of the 16th century king's pronouncements were quite reminiscent of Hitler and his henchmen. Also cleverly woven into the plot is Henry's concern with modern political and economic theories, and it might well be said that—as the program states—the time is the 16th century to the present day. The play holds an interesting balance between tragedy and comedy, and the actors were able to convey this balance to the audience.

At the start, all of them seemed a little unsure of their lines, but as the play progressed, they found themselves completely within their parts, and their acting became more mature and full of understanding for the characters they portrayed.

Steve Rhodes as Henry VIIIth seemed a little colorless and unconvincing at first, but gained considerably in stature in the course of the evening. The laughter that often greeted his reasoning and his ever-changing moods and tastes as well as the horrified gasp from the audience as he stepped unfeelingly over the prostrate Jane Seymour certainly showed how well he succeeded in his portrayal of the headstrong king. Ingrid Hellwig as Katarina of Aragon deserves praise for her splendid diction as well as for her poise and stage presence. Greta Hughes, a beautiful and convincing Ann Boleyn, and Lynn Bevan, a sweet and conscientious Jane Seymour, held the attention of the audience in their big scenes with the king. Nancy Rader as the homely German princess Anna of Cleves should have special mention. Not once did she forget that she was portraying a rather unattractive woman whose only charm lay in her quick wit and tongue.

Beth Bodine as Kathryn Howard convincingly conveyed that young queen's rebellion against a double standard of morals, and Gloria Fisher was a stately and intelligent Kate Parr, the monarch's last love who alone could handle him in his later years.

All six girls seemed to understand the women they were portraying and were able to bring out the differences in their personalities. This was particularly clear in the last moving scene when they divided up the king's spiritual heritage in six shares.

The beautiful costumes added much to the enjoyment of the play. All colors were apparently carefully chosen to emphasize the particular character of each queen, and the rich greens, blues and purples complemented the black and red of the king's regal robes.

Mention must also be made of James Meikle's very simple yet very lovely setting. The black and white steps on which the players moved helped to sustain the illusion that a chess game, a "Royal Gambit," was being enacted here. James Conover, the director is to be complimented on his choice of such an interesting and thought-provoking play and for the fine cast of competent and enthusiastic young actors for an excellent job of directing.

Chicago Girl To Play Role Of Salome In 'King Of Kings'

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

MADRID, Spain (AP)—For the first time in screen memory, Salome, one of history's earliest juvenile delinquents, will be played by a 16-year-old girl.

That's the historically authentic age of the young seductress who asked for the head of John the Baptist on a silver platter.

Brigid Bazlen makes her screen debut as Salome in "The King of Kings," the story of Christ, now being shot in Spain.

When I first saw Brigid walk across a hotel lobby here, I turned to some friends and said: "There's the most typically Spanish beauty I've seen yet."

Her hair is anthracite black, her eyes flash like a go-ahead traffic signal—green, of course. Her figure is voluptuous.

But she's not Spanish. Up until a few months ago, Brigid was a high school sophomore in Chicago and a television actress little known outside of the Windy City.

She's the daughter and niece of Chicago's Daly sisters, a quartet of Irish girls who are writers and commentators.

Her mother is Maggie Daly, a fashion commentator; her aunts are Kathleen Daly, executive vice president of an advertising agency; Sheila Daly, syndicated columnist who writes for and about teen-agers and Maureen Daly, novelist.

Salome is a role that has attracted actresses for years—from Nazimova in the silents to Rita Hayworth in her prime as a screen love goddess.

How Brigid got it is best explained by producer Sam Bronston.

"I found her by accident," says Bronston. "I was convinced the part called for a teen-ager but I didn't want any of the established teen-age idols—the ones who are spread all over the fan magazines.

"Agents submitted teen-aged girls by job lots. One day there was a flock of them in my outer office in New York. I walked out to tell my secretary something and spotted this black-haired beauty among them. She looked like a younger version of Elizabeth Taylor.

"I asked her if she had a passport. She said no. I told her she had better get one."

It was as simple as that. Brigid went back to Chicago, applied for a passport and waited.

"Two weeks later, I got a call from Mr. Bronston's office, telling me to get ready to go Spain. In a few days I was here studying for Salome."

Brigid has never taken a dramatic lesson and is probably the only Salome in history who ever got her show business start while playing hopscotch.

That was in 1956. In the 12 years before that, Brigid had an uneventful childhood, going to parochial school in Chicago.

A TV producer friend of her mother's saw Brigid playing the children's game in front of her apartment house. He put her in a children's local TV series. Later she became the 12-year-old hostess of a children's show on Chicago TV.

Producer David Susskind spotted her in the show and signed her for a teen-ager series called "Too Young to Go Steady." From there, she wound up in Bronston's office—and Spain.

TRACTORS GET FLAGS

AMES, Iowa (AP)— Safety experts at Iowa State University in Ames have designed flags and poles which would be flown by tractors on the highways in hilly areas. State safety officials will try to get the legislature to require their use.

They say the flags would give motorists a chance to see slow-moving farm vehicles before they were right upon them.

Daily Living Inspires Janet Henry

'Poems On Parenthood' Sprout In Family Atmosphere

CLEVELAND—(NEA)— There's inspiration for hundreds of new poems at Janet and Fred Henry's big, old, sprawling house on Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Four-week-old Heidi Henry is home from the hospital and happily installed in her nursery. And her mother, Janet Henry, whose humorous Poems on Parenthood are written for Newspaper Enterprise Association and appear each week in the Journal Courier is happily experiencing life with five instead of four children.

Heidi brings the Henry household to seven—not counting turtles, rabbits, mice, parakeets, and any stray cats adopted by Ricky, Scot, Christie, or Karen who range from 7 to 12 years old.

Janet Henry and children. Foreground: Mrs. Henry, baby Heidi, Christie, 12. Background: Karen, 7, Scot, 9, and Ricky, 11.

"I used to think I'd run out of ideas for poems when the children got out of the toddler stage," says Janet, "but I decided that there's just as much gentle humor in the PTA and Cub Souts as diapers.

"In fact, I'm looking forward to the day when I'll have a few teen-agers and, in the far future, some grandchildren to write about. But of course Heidi provides me with someone in the diaper set again. It's fun being able to write about all phases of child life."

Heidi's arrival has already inspired several bits of verse. One poem concerns an acquaintance who asks where the Henry's find their household help. Janet's answer?

"We grow our own!"

At the moment, the household help is somewhat ignoring routine chores in favor of taking turns holding Heidi. But all the children do have regular tasks.

While their mother was in the hospital, Christie and Karen managed the house.

"They did it beautifully, too," says Janet. "Christie did the shopping and cooking and Karen looked after her father."

But while Janet extolled the girls with understandable maternal pride, there was an "I feel a poem coming on" look in her eye. Christie's first adventure with fried chicken and Karen's problems with ironing her father's shirts will certainly turn up in future Janet Henry poems.

She never sits down to think up a poem. Ideas pop into her head while she's ironing, cleaning, cooking, or getting the children ready for school.

Right then she jots the idea down. At the end of the day, when all is quiet, she pulls a chair up to the kitchen table and turns the hunch into a finished poem.

Janet has been writing poetry for as long as she can remember. Her first poem was published in 1946. Since then, she's written for newspapers in her home town of Cleveland, Ohio, for "The Ladies Home Journal," and for British magazines. A collection of her poems, "This Side of Sanity; a Part-Time Handbook for Full-Time Parents," was published in 1959.

Last February Janet joined the staff of Newspaper Enterprise Association, world's largest feature service, which distributes her Poems on Parenthood to hundreds of newspapers throughout the United States and Canada.

Near Goal In Ashland Community Fund Drive

ASHLAND—The Ashland Community fund campaign has reached the final stage 95.3 percent of the goal, or a total of $1,000.37, has been collected with a few organizations still to be heard from.

This is the most successful financial campaign ever held in Ashland and the surrounding community, and Harold Allen, United Fund chairman, deserves a great deal of credit for the commendable way in which he organized and carried out plans for the campaign. Also special credit must be given to Rev. J. William Jones and his publicity committee, consisting of Mrs. Bill Quinley, Tom Price, Rev. Glenn Vernon and Richard Bendorf. This group worked diligently in composing the United Fund booklet which told of the needs of the Ashland Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Little League and the Salvation Army.

Special mention should also be made of the materials and time donated for the construction of the United fund thermometer which showed the results of the contributions given as the campaign progressed. The Alexander Lumber Co. donated the plywood and John Gutmann and James Dale took care of the painting.

Without solicitations no campaign would be a success. The following solicitors gave freely of their time: Marcella Petefish, Hazel Stice, Dorothy Sudeth, Alice Reiser, Eloise Quinley, Shirley Balance, Betty Price, Sara Allen, Lois Yancy, Maxine Mallicoat, Cynthia Gutmann, Carol Lohman, Eileen Christen, Betty Aggertt, Nancy Falls, Rev. Empathy Becomes Subject Of Psychological Research

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—What quality makes the best statesman, business manager, social worker or educator?

According to psychologist Hans Hahn, it's empathy, a factor long recognized in literature and art but only recently the subject of concentrated scientific research.

Empathy, Hahn says, is the degree of feeling one man has for the suffering, problems or happiness of another.

And, he adds, he has developed a test which allows him to determine the degree of empathy present in an individual.

He says the test is highly accurate, can't be faked and identifies a personality as well as fingerprints identify a person.

The test records emotions which otherwise might be hidden when the subject is asked to look at pictures ranging from the gruesome and tragic to the meaningless or pleasant.

This is accomplished by equipment similar to that used in lie detectors.

It measures the skin's resistance to slight electric currents and variations in skin temperature. Both are affected by a man's emotional status.

The value of the test, Hahn says, covers a wide range.

He predicts a time soon when it will be possible to pick the type of men best suited as business managers, diplomats, educators or other careers. Or the test may be used in rehabilitating some criminals.

In brief, Hahn says, the test shows whether a man is capable of getting along with—and understanding—other people.

Hahn, who heads the Transylvania College psychology department, says education or intelligence has nothing to do with it he says.

"I believe that a stupid man and an intelligent man can get along excellently—with empathy."

But, he says, if one of them lacks tact, a smooth relationship is impossible or difficult.

For this reason, according to Hahn, a man without empathy can do more harm than good when he's in a position that calls for handling men in a business operation.

Hahn believes empathy is inborn and that environment may have little effect on it.

One large computer firm has expressed interest in Hahn's test to help pick its personnel managers, but Hahn says he first needs to standardize the test.

Rabbits are said to be one of the oldest living mammals on the North American continent.

CHICAGO (AP)—Hog prices in Chicago improved this week with butchers selling steady to strong and sows steady to 25 cents higher compared with last week.

Prices worked higher each day except Thursday when unexpectedly large receipts of 12,000 head, the largest in more than a year, caused a sharp break. Receipts for the week totaled 34,400 head compared with 35,200 a week ago.

Top price for the week was 18.35.

In the wholesale dressed pork trade pork loins were up 1 to 2 for the week.

In the cattle trade slaughter steers ended the week 75 cents to 1.50 higher and heifers strong to 25 higher. Top price for the period was 27.

Although cattle receipts increased by 2,500 head, supplies of slaughter cattle for the regular market were actually smaller. Total receipts of some 45,000 head included about 4,000 destined for the annual stocker and feeder show.

In sheep, wooled slaughter lambs ended the week steady to weak after a steady to 50 cent higher start. Shorn slaughter lambs finished weak to 1 lower and slaughter ewes were mostly steady after advancing up to 50 cents at midweek.

GROUP ORGANIZES TO AID SMALL DOWNSTATE BUSINESS

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)— A group trying to form a $3 million southern Illinois small business investment corporation has held an organizational meeting and named Ed Curtis as chairman.

Curtis, president of the First National Bank of Mount Vernon, said his bank had pledged $10,000 toward initial capital of the organization and had offered the use of an office in the bank building.

The group's objective is to form a corporation to invest in, or make loans to, southern Illinois businesses needing expansion capital.

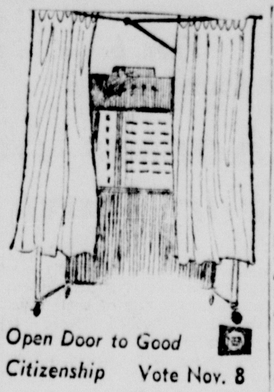

The group agreed Friday to name a committee to investigate requirements for marketing the proposed corporation's securities and to arrange with Southern Illinois University to make a survey of the area's need for equity capital.

Represented at the meeting were banks in St. Louis, East St. Louis, Alton, Belleville, Fairfield, Mount Vernon, Carbondale, Benton, Salem, Centralia, Christopher, Gorham, Cairo, Marion and Eldorado.

pectation that Khrushchev would at some point begin to try to create pressures calculated to lead to a 1961 summit conference where he might win concessions from the West.

While strongly backing Castro and pouring arms into his country, Khrushchev may well be determined that his Cuban policy should not wreck his over-all strategy. If that is a correct Washington assumption, Castro must be expected to feel the check of the Soviet reins from time to time.

It is widely believed in the State Department that Khrushchev is well aware that Cuba is in the zone of primary U. S. security interest—just as U. S. officials recognized four years ago that Hungary was in the region of major concern for Soviet security.

This fact would serve as another limitation on Khrushchev's commitment to Castro in engaging in any military ventures—such as an attack on Guantanamo—which might embarrass, if not actually involve, the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev evidently hopes that Cuba will be able to serve as a base for subversive operations against other American countries without interfering with Khrushchev's larger schemes for expanding Communist influence.

The United States thus does not so much fear a direct military clash with Castro forces as it fears expanding subversive operations against other American nations. The major U.S. defensive steps in the next few weeks—like Friday's call for action by a hemispheric good offices committee—will be directed toward rallying other countries to joint economic and political defensive efforts.

Kennedy Blames GOP For Woes In Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said Saturday the United States is now the target of bitter attacks in Latin America because of blunders by the Eisenhower administration.

The Republican administration since 1952 "has been indifferent to Latin American problems and neglectful of them," the Democratic presidential candidate said in a statement for the Spanish-language magazine Vision.

The Democratic National Committee distributed the statement.

Kennedy called for a five-point program to recapture the happy relationship which he said prevailed between the United States and Latin America for 20 years.

His program to "reconstruct our ties" included:

1. "The strengthening of the Organization of American States, including the possible use of its Commission of Human Rights as a tribunal for the presentation of cases of victims of the Latin American dictators.

2. "The setting up of a consultative system among the Americans on all important hemispheric problems, to provide frequent meetings on questions the OAS does not cover, and among the major American nations on issues of world urgency.

3. "A cooperative effort to promote Latin American economic growth, the first element in the program to be the pursuit of practical agreements for stabilizing commodity prices, trade and currency convertibility.

4. "The over-all coordination of economic aid on a hemispheric or even country - by - country basis, with one initial aim, the removal of certain bottlenecks now blocking Latin American economic growth.

5. "An increased flow of technical assistance, development capital, private investment and agricultural surpluses, perhaps through the large-scale 'Operation PanAmerica' proposed by the president of Brazil."

OWL VS. TRUCK

The owl flew through an open window of the truck's cab and struck the driver, Norman McWold of Douglas, Ariz.

McWold lost control of the truck and it overturned. The driver wasn't hurt but the owl died of a broken neck.

GEOGRAPHICAL MIXUP

TRINIDAD, Colo. (AP) — Folks were a bit puzzled over a bumper sticker on a car which passed through Trinidad.

The sticker read: "Colorful Colorado. . .where Texans live."

Sixty-eight per cent of all employed persons in the U.S. drive to work in automobiles.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week jolted down sharply, recovered vigorously and ended about even with a slight upside edge.

As it skidded early in the week, both The Associated Press overall average and the Dow Jones industrial average broke through the previous 1960 lows reached in September and set new lows for the year.

Political uncertainties combined with a rising debate among economists as to whether the country was in a "recession" and, if so, how long it would last, accompanied the market's gyrations.

Many third quarter earnings were poor, as expected, some were surprisingly good. The well-advertised "profit squeeze" was apparent in the quarterly financial reports. Steel production was scheduled for a sharp cutback.

More bullish was news that the cost-of-living index and manufacturers' new orders had risen in September. However, unemployment in October was estimated as topping the September rate.

The Federal Reserve System announced plans for expanding the lending power of banks. The British bank rate was cut to 5½ per cent from 6 per cent, a step which would tend to draw some American money invested abroad back to Wall Street and to help firm the condition of the dollar. Meanwhile, the price of gold bullion in the London market continued at such levels that speculation in gold mining issues resumed, though at a much slacker rate than last week.

The Dow Jones industrial average sank to a new 1960 closing low of 566.05 on Tuesday but ended the week at 577.92, making an unimportant net gain of .37.

The AP 60-stock average, also on Tuesday, dropped to a 1960 low of 202.60 and closed the week at 206.00, for a small rise of 0.2.

Volume was 15,862,940 shares compared with 12,932,430 the previous week.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Webb & Knapp, up ¼ at 1⅜ 123,800 shares.

Apparent uncertainty over the state of the economy and the approaching presidential election was reflected by lower bond prices in October.

The corporate setback amounted to about half of September's which was the worst of the year. September and October was the first time since March and April that corporate bond prices declined two months in a row. Rails were the big loser this month, falling close to a full index point in the AP averages.

With one trading session of the month remaining, most Treasury bonds were a point or so below their Oct. 1 level. The changes ranged from about plus ⅛ to off 1½ with the losses heaviest in the long end. Last month governments picked up fractions of a point.

Volume for the week jumped to the third highest of the year at $29,981,090 par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $21,604,000 the previous week.

Kennedy Stumps Philadelphia

the big Democratic vote of the cities.

Kennedy makes an overnight trip to his home in Washington Saturday night but he will be back here Sunday for more of the same.

Saturday night he winds up at a downtown dinner and a final stop at a fund-raising dinner at Valley Forge Country Club.

Kennedy said at the Lawrence Park shopping center, in Republican-dominated Deawlare County: "No matter how many speeches Mr. Nixon may make about how high our prestige is today, the fact of the matter is that the State Department's own survey taken this summer shows such a loss in our influence throughout the world that this administration has been unwilling to release it.

"The New York Times carried one this morning which shows that only 7 per cent of the people of England and France thought we were now ahead of the Soviet Union in science."

At historic Valley Forge, Kennedy chose to review the entire theme of his new frontiers campaign in a speech prepared for delivery there.

"Here, on a cold and bitter frontier, men who believed that these states were and ought to be independent, dedicated their lives to the cause of freedom," Kennedy said.

"I have said in this campaign that we stand today on a new frontier—a frontier that will demand of us all, in each individual home, as well as the White House, those same qualities of courage and conviction."

Kennedy listed his new frontiers as population, increased length of life, education, suburban problems, science and space, automation, and the related increase in leisure time.

"The new frontier of which I speak is not too hard for us — neither is it far off," Kennedy said. "No one need bring it to us—it is here, both its dangers and its opportunities — and we must meet its challenges here, in our hearts."

CLASS NEARLY EMPTY—Third grade school teacher, Miss Edna Bryanton, of Detroit's Guest School, surveys her near empty classroom as only eight pupils out of 32 reported for classes. The high absenteeism was attributed to angry parents who are keeping their children out of school in protest over the transfer of 314 Negro pupils into three predominantly white Detroit schools. Name U.N. Group To Go To Congo On Peace Mission

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Fifteen African and Asian countries were named Saturday to a U.N. committee to go to the Congo and seek peace between rival political leaders.

Diplomats reported this after a three-hour private meeting of Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold's Advisory Committee on the Congo, which consists of the 18 countries with soldiers in the U.N. force in that country.

They said that committee decided that its 15 African and Asian members would make up a mission to attempt reconciliation of such Congolese figures as President Joseph Kasavubu, deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba and secessionist leader Moise Tshombe.

They said a few members of the Advisory Committee would draw up proposed instructions for the mission and the full committee would meet probably next Wednesday to approve such instructions and discuss when the mission should leave for the Congo.

There were some reports it might leave week after next, but at the same time the view was said to have been expressed in the committee that the trip should be delayed until the situation was such as to offer the best chances for success.

The committee acted under a resolution the General Assembly adopted Sept. 20 in emergency session. The resolution appealed to all Congolese to seek a speedy solution of their internal conflicts "with the assistance, as appropriate, of Asian and African representatives appointed by the Advisory Committee on the Congo, in consultation with the Secretary-General, for the purpose of conciliation."

Informants said the Advisory Committee had agreed to put all 15 of its African and Asian members on the peacemaking mission only because the Africans, who first consulted among themselves on the matter, could not agree on a smaller number.

care for the people, and that America trails the Soviet Union in space exploration.

At Wheaton, Nixon accused the Democratic nominee of "a calculated deception" and trying to convince Americans that Republicans are opposed to medical care for the aged.

"Mr. Kennedy is putting his desire to be president ahead of the truth," Nixon said.

He said his opponent favored a compulsory health insurance program for old persons under Social Security while the GOP proposal is for a voluntary federal-state plan which, he said, would provide more benefits than Kennedy's program.

Nixon had an enthusiastic crowd estimated by police at about 30,000 at Wheaton College, an institution associated with the National Association of Evangelicals, which is helping to sponsor Reformation Sunday observances Sunday.

The vice president had good sized, friendly crowds all along his motorcade route from the Hillside Shopping Center to Wheaton.

The vice president made his final appeal of the campaign to Illinois voters in a 30-minute television speech broadcast Saturday night over seven stations around the state.

At the traditional bonfire and snake dance held, as a part of the festivities surrounding the annual homecoming, at the Winchester High School this past Thursday evening the name of Elaine Wells was revealed as the new Homecoming Queen.

Miss Wells, a senior student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wells of Alsey.

Following the Snake Dance the students were busy whitewashing the store windows and streets of the town with slogans to encourage the team to victory at the homecoming football game on Friday with Greenfield. Other students were hard at work preparing the floats that made up the parade held on Friday afternoon. The parade was led by the high school band under the direction of their director, Thomas Springer. The Homecoming Queen and her attendants also rode in the parade. Attendants included Linda Havens, Jeanne Coultas, and Doris Akers.

Following the football game on Friday the Homecoming dance climaxed the festivities. Dancing was done to music by the "Wildcats", a newly organized orchestra composed of students from the high school band. At 11:00 p.m. the Queen and her court were introduced and retiring queen, Kay Palmer, placed the crown on the new Queen's head.

Goodpaster Found In Semi-Conscious Condition In Cell

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Dr. Walter J. Goodpaster, convicted of murder Friday and sentenced to 199 years in prison, was pronounced out of danger Saturday after being found in semi-conscious condition in his jail cell in Metropolis.

Physicians first feared that the Herrin optometrist, brother of a White House aide, had taken poison. But after examination they said he hadn't taken poison but may have taken sleeping pills. He was in a state of shock and was given glucose because he refused food.

Sheriff Dean West drove him to Marion Memorial Hospital where his stomach was pumped out.

The sheriff, who had gone to Metropolis to return Goodpaster, 47, to Marion, found him unconscious in his cell. Officials revived him but said he appeared unable to talk coherently.

Dr. Goodpaster was searched but officials were unable to find a bottle or any other kinds of container. A 24-hour guard was placed on Goodpaster's hospital room.

Dr. Goodpaster appeared all right when a jailer took him his breakfast. The jailer said Goodpaster told him, "I don't want any." It was some four hours later when the sheriff entered the cell and found Goodpaster unconscious.

The optometrist, brother of Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary, was convicted in the Christmas Day rifle slaying of Mrs. Margaret Strunk, 52, mother of 12 children.

Bernard Dobraski Jr., 33, testified Goodpaster killed the woman with a rifle shot and wounded Dobraski twice with pistol shots after Dobraski threw rocks at Goodpaster's barking watch dog. Dobraski and Mrs. Strunk were walking by Goodpaster's farm near Carterville after visiting several taverns together.

Under the 199-year sentence, Goodpaster would not become eligible for parole until he reached the age of 113. State's Atty. Carl Sneed had demanded the death penalty.

Dr. Goodpaster denied the shooting but admitted scuffling with Dobraski. Neither of the weapons the prosecution said he used has been found. He has a month in which to ask for a new trial.

The trial was held at Metropolis on a change of venue. The shootings were in Williamson County, of which Marion is the county seat.

Mobutu Declares He'll Keep Congo Free Of Soviets

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu said Saturday he never will permit the return of Soviet influence to the Congo so long as he remains alive.

The 30-year-old army leader told The Associated Press he would not tolerate any challenge to his will either from the United Nations or from the suspended Congolese Parliament.

"My will is the supreme power in the Congo," he said. "My army obeys my orders and is powerful enough to carry them out."

A few hours earlier, a detachment of Mobutu's army tried to arrest and expel Associated Press correspondent Michael Goldsmith but was forestalled by a show of U.N. force. U.N. mission chief Rajeshwar Dayal said "we cannot permit such arbitrary procedures" and 60 Canadian, Ghanaian and Indonesian troops rescued Goldsmith from his hotel room after he had been besieged for more than an hour.

Mobutu rescinded the expulsion order after a 90-minute meeting in his fortified encampment with Goldsmith and Associated Press correspondent Andrew Borowiec.

"Let's forget the past," the bearded colonel said, shaking hands with the two reporters.

He told them he objected to their reports describing his regime as shaky. He dismissed the rumbling revolt in his army as unimportant and said he had failed to take rigorous action against mutinous troops "to avoid unnecessary bloodshed."

He gave the same explanation for his failure to arrest ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba, who still lives in the official prime minister's residence under U.N. protection.

Goldsmith and Borowiec went to Mobutu's camp accompanied by U.S. Consul Frank Carlucci but without any U.N. escort. There Mobutu explained his grievances against the foreign press in general and the AP in particular.

He cited articles in Belgian newspapers which asserted that control of his Sept. 14 coupe was slipping out of his hands. He also complained about eyewitness reports of misbehavior by his soldiers during their four-day occupation of Leopoldville's African city.

LSU Holds Ole Miss To A 6-6 Deadlock

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—Center Allen Green, last-play star of Mississippi's victory over Arkansas last week, kicked a 41-yard field goal with six seconds left Saturday as second-ranked Mississippi gained a 6-6 tie with rugged, four-times beaten Louisiana State.

Named AP lineman of the week after his last-play field goal beat Arkansas, 10-7, the senior center came back to kick two field goals for all the Rebel scoring in this regionally televised Southeastern Conference football thriller.

Green's tying field goal averted a defeat which would have been the first for the Rebels since they lost to the Tigers 7-3 last year.

Ole Miss took a third period lead on a 38-yard field goal by Green early in the quarter. LSU moved ahead early in the fourth on a touchdown by sophomore halfback Ray Wilkins.

The triumph gave Northern a 3-2 record in IIAC play. Normal has yet to win a conference game.

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP) — Halfback Steve Dickenson scored all three touchdowns today to lead Carleton to a 22-14 victory over Monmouth in a Midwest Conference game.

Dickenson scored on an 8-yard run, a 41-yard pass from Phil Bredine and a 2-yard run. Trailing 22-0 going into the last quarter, Monmouth scored on passes by quarterback Pete Margetis. Margetis tossed a 45-yard touchdown pass to Gary Larson and a 35-yard scoring aerial to Carl Goff.

ELMHURST, Ill. (AP) — Ed Young scored twice and Larry McLaine tossed two touchdown passes to lead Lake Forest over Elmhurst, 48-0, in a non-conference football game Saturday.

Elmhurst, ending season play, now has lost 21 consecutive games over a three year span.

Young scored on runs of 29 and 5 yards. McLaine's passes were good for 9 and 24 yards.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Undefeated Millikin, led by Del Rutz, remained in first place in the College Conference of Illinois by defeating Illinois Wesleyan, 18-13.

It was the sixth victory this season for the Big Blue in as many games.

Rutz tossed a 36-yard touchdown quarter and then scampered 33 pass to Jim Hoffman in the first yards for another first period touchdown. Millikin's final touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a four-yard run by Ted Smith, who set up the score with a 30-yard dash.

Norm Halleman scored both of Wesleyan's touchdowns. He counted in the third quarter on a 16-yard pass from Dennis Bridges and capped a 93-yard drive in the final minutes with a two-yard plunge.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—A 6-yard pass fram Kent Hutchinson to Bill Hirst with five seconds to play enabled Wheaton to gain a 19-19 tie with Augustana Saturday.

After scoring the big touchdown, Wheaton passed for the extra point on a short toss from Bruce Whipple to Dan Branda. NAIA rules do not allow a two-point play after a touchdown.

Augustana led 13-12 at the half and went ahead 19-12 in the third quarter on a 20-yard touchdown run by halfback Bob Walters. Walters also scored the Vikins' first touchdown on a 26-yard run.

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Bill Melsheimer's 5-yard pass to Henry Brown in the third period put North Central ahead to stay as the Naperville, Ill., team ruined Carroll College's homecoming, 14-6, Saturday in a College Conference of Illinois game.

Thompson Rallies To Win Verdict Over Ortega

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Argentina's Federico Thompson rallied Saturday night to gain a unanimous decision over Mexico's Gaspar Ortega in a bristling television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

A storm of boos greeted the verdict which protected Thompson's Dec. 10 title shot with welterweight champion Benny Paret of Cuba.

The officials had the 3-1 favored Thompson ahead by the following round scores: Referee Art Mercante, 5-3-2, Judge Tony Castellano, 5-4-1, and Judge Joe Eppy, 6-3-1. The Associated Press scorecard had Ortega in front, 5-4-1. A check of the ringside showed an even split, four writers for Thompson and four for Ortega.

Thompson had to go all out against the 24-year-old Mexican who gave it all he had for the full 10 rounds in a bid for a dramatic upset and his seventh straight victory.

There were no knockdowns although Thompson was trying throughout the fight to put the iron-pawed Mexican away with one punch. He landed his best punches but couldn't floor his game rival.

Thompson weighed 151, four pounds over the welterweight limit and appeared sluggish with the excess poundage. Ortega was finely tuned at 148 pounds.

GIANTS NOT THE SAME

TOKYO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants lost the third game of the six played so far on their goodwill tour of Japan today and the 10-7 defeat set the fans to buzzing.

How is this possible, a Japanese fan asked a Japanese baseball official?

Clock Runs Out For Syracuse And Baylor

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The clock ran out for Syracuse and Baylor Saturday and it almost caught up with mighty Mississippi.

Syracuse, the defending champion and proudly riding a 16-game winning streak, fell before Pitt, 10-0. Baylor, the surprise leader of the Southwest Conference, went down to a 14-6 defeat at the hands of Texas Christian after five victories.

Mississippi, which has been battling Iowa for the top spot in the Associated Press ratings, could do no better than tie much-scorned Louisiana State, 6-6, on Allen Green's field goal with just six seconds left.

But Iowa, No. 1 team in the country this week ahead of Mississippi and Syracuse, downed Kansas, 21-7, and Navy, No. 4—and now the undisputed king of the East—turned back Notre Dame 14-7.

Missouri, No. 5, battered Nebraska, 28-0, while Minnesota, No. 6, crushed Kansas State, 48-7.

Ohio State, ranked eighth behind Baylor, polished off 10th-rated Michigan State, 21-10, in the most important Big Ten game of the day.

Washington, No. 9, trailed Oregon for three quarters, but pulled out a 7-6 victory in the last two minutes. Bob Hivner passed 47 yards to Don McKeta for the tying touchdown, then George Fleming converted the winning point.

Rutgers, seeking its first undefeated season in 92 years, was toppled by Villanova, 14-12, after winning five in a row.

Tennessee made a bold bid to crash the top 10 by overcoming North Carolina 27-14. The Vols now show a 5-0-1 record.

Arrest W. German On Suspicion Of Espionage

BONN, Germany (AP)—A Socialist member of West Germany's parliamentary Defense Committee has been arrested on suspicion of feeding government secrets to Communist spies, the Interior Ministry said Saturday.

The Justice Minister identified him, the democratic party deputy, as Alfred Frenzel, 61, who also is chairman of the Bundestag lower house Restitution Committee. This committee deals with indemnifying victims of Nazism.

Frenzel, who sought refuge from Hitler in Britain, has made a confession, the ministry said.

The corpulent politician, a former glass worker, was arrested Friday night by federal Atty. Gen. Max Guede.

The ministry said counterspies first nabbed two Communist agents. A subsequent search of their luggage revealed documents which allegedly had just been turned over by Frenzel.

Officials said the deputy was arrested immediately. Bundestag deputies normally are immune from arrest but immunity is void, officials explained, when a suspect is caught in the act of committing a crime.

This was the first time a member of the House had been implicated in espionage activities.

The identity of the two other persons arrested was not made public. Neither did the ministry indicate the type of secrets involved. As a member of the Defense Committee, Frenzel would have had some access to state secrets, including those involving Europe's defense in the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

RENEWS SAFETY PLEA

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — State Conservation Director Glen Palmer Saturday renewed his plea that hunters observe the basic rules of shooting safety.

The 1960 squirrel season was only a few days old when one hunter shot another, Palmer said. Later, a grandfather shot his grandson, and a father shot his son.

During the 1959-60 season, seven hunters were killed and 12 were injured in shooting accidents which could have been avoided, Palmer said.

CRAPPIES HITTING AT DEAD END DITCH

Frank Matijevich of 512 East Morton said the crappie were hitting at Dead End Ditch Saturday and he had a full stringer to prove it. The 12 beauties were of the 'one pound or better" variety. The veteran angler was frying 35 crappies Saturday night he had caught at the Old Lake last week and he claims he has been having real good luck this fall. He urges everyone that loves to fish to go after them before the water freezes over.

Poncar Scores Five Touchdowns In The 1st Win For ISD, 39-6

DELAVAN, Wis.—Bobby Poncar crossed Wisconsin's goal line five times to lead coach Jim Bonds' ISD Tigers to their first victory of the season here Saturday afternoon, 39-6.

The Tigers had lost four and tied one before Poncar came across with his best effort of the season. Wisconsin Deaf suffered its fifth loss against a lone victory.

ISD didn't make any scoring threats in the first quarter due to fumblitis but Wisconsin threatened before ISD dug in and halted the bid deep in Tiger real estate.

Illinois Deaf settled down in the second canto and began a sustained drive with Poncar capping the march on runs of 22 and five yards for his first TD.

Five plays later Poncar went 33 yards off tackle for another score and a 12-0 lead.

Mid-way through the third stanza, Poncar went 37 yards on another off-tackle slant for his fourth tally of the game. Jackson added the PAT.

The Tigers collected their second touchdown of the third chapter on a 21 yarder by Edgar Joyner. Jackson converted for a 33-0 margin.

ISD got its final tally of the game late in the third frame when Poncar hauled in an aerial and returned it 78 yards for his fifth touchdown and 30th point of the game.

Wisconsin scored against the Tiger subs in the fourth quarter on a 35 yard pass play.

BACKLASH SETS HOOK—IN MAN'S NOSE

DINAN, France (AP)—Bernard Picouays, 18, was minding his own business Saturday, riding next to the window in a Dinan-bound bus through Ecoubliere Swamp, but the backlash of a fisherman's cast settled a hook in Picouays' nose.

It took a little time to get the bus stopped but fortunately the fisherman's line snapped and the driver was able to get on, delivering Picouays to the hospital to have the hook removed.

Huskies Shade Oregon, 7-6

SEATTLE (AP)—Don McKeta hauled in a Bob Hivner pass for a 47-yard touchdown play that gave the Washington Huskies a last-gasp 7-6 football victory over Oregon Saturday.

When senior halfback George Fleming booted the perfect placement with just 2:24 minutes left on the clock, it was the third successive week in which his toe brought victory to the Huskies.

A week ago Washington outlasted Oregon State 30-29 and they beat UCLA a week earlier 10-8 on a Fleming field goal.

The first half was scoreless, with Oregon never getting beyond its own 38-yard line and Washington penetrating only to the Oregon 25.

Senior quarterback Dave Grosz, with end Len Burnett as his principal target, passed the team to a touchdown with five minutes left in the third period. The Webfoots went 65 yards in 10 plays and Bruce Snyder slanted the last five yards to tally.

Missouri Routs Nebraska, 28-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Undefeated Missouri pounded Nebraska into submission Saturday 28-0 to run its football win string to seven games.

Scoring at a touchdown-a-quarter clip, Missouri posted its points on a pair of short plunges by Donnie Smith, a brilliant 69 - yard sprint by Norris Stevenson and a 20-yard TD pass, Ron Taylor to Norm Beal.

Missouri, relying largely on end runs and plunges, marched 77 yards in 15 plays the first time it gained possession of the ball in the first quarter.

Nebraska couldn't manage as much as a first down in this initial period and never got a sustained offense going until the game's waning moments when a 75-yard assault bogged down on Missouri's 7.

Virginia Battled Carrollton To Scoreless Tie

VIRGINIA—Virginia, minus star fullback Charles Dudley, held the potent Carrollton Hawks to a 0-0 tie Friday night at the Virginia field. After an exchange of punts in the first quarter Carrollton started a sustained drive that finally fizzeled on the Virginia four yard line. Then with a minute and a half left in the first half Virginia moved the ball all the way down the field to the Carrollton nine yard stripe before the half ended.

After holding the Hawks following the second half kickoff, Reg Velten returned the punt 70 yards for an apparent Virginia touchdown, but this fine run was nullified by a clipping penalty on the Carrollton five yard stripe. The remainder of the third quarter and the first half of the fourth quarter was all played in the vicinity of the Carrollton twenty yard stripe. Then near the end of the game Carrollton started a sustained drive from their own thirty-five which Virginia finally halted on their own 12 yard stripe.

Thus the night of scoring frustration ended in a scoreless deadlock. This marked the fourth time in seven games that the Virginia club has been unable to score.

MacMurray 2nd In Triangular X-Country Meet

DECATUR — Host Millikin garnered the first three places to defeat MacMurray and Blackburn here Saturday in a triangular cross-country meet. The winners garnered 219 points to MacMurray's 37 and Blackburn's 69.

Ken Spitzer, John Steddke and Polacek placed 1-2-3 to spearhead Millikin's attack. All are freshmen. The winning time was 16 minutes and 33 seconds.

Kirby and Collier were fourth and fifth for Dan Unruh's Highlanders with Head, Shostrum, Osler, Bonner and Jones finishing 9th, 10th, 11th, 13th, and 15th, respectively. Kirby's time was 17:13.

MacMurray is now 7-2 for the season. The clan journeys to St. Louis Tuesday for a meet and then winds up the campaign next Saturday in Fulton, Mo., against Westminster College.

Indiana Loses To N'western

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Mike Stock drilled the uprights on two of three field goal attempts, and the Northwestern Wildcats went on to score two touchdowns in the second half and beat Indiana 21-3 Saturday.

Stock kicked a 20-yard field goal in the second quarter, and Wayne Nichols matched it for Indiana from 31 yards out as the gun ended the first half.

Stock kicked another field goal from 21 yards in the third quarter.

Dick Thornton passed 28 yards to Dave Cox in the second period for the first Northwestern touchdown. It was set up when George Thomas recovered an Indiana fumble on the 43 yard line. Five plays later, the Wildcats were in. Stock kicked the extra point. Knowles scored the final touchdown as he struggled the last yard of a 51-yard drive. Bob Eickhoff passed to Chuck Brainerd for a two-point conversion.

Because of Indiana's probation over recruiting infractions, the game did not count in the Big Ten standings.

Italian Beats Archie Moore

ROME (AP) — Italy's Giulio Rinaldi staggered ancient Archie Moore Saturday night and handed the light heavyweight champion his first defeat in nearly four years.

The 43-year-old champion was reeling at the end of the 10 round bout in the Olympic Sports Palace. Rinaldi was awarded the decision in the nontitle affair.

Moore had gone unbeaten in 19 fights since he was knocked out by Floyd Patterson in their fight for the vacant heavyweight title on Nov. 30, 1956.

In the closing minute of the fight, the old man from San Diego, Calif., was staggered. The referee gave him an eight-count although he still was on his feet.

In addition to losing the decision, Archie lost $1,000 of his $10,000 purse because he weighed too much. He agreed to weigh 185 pounds but scaled 190¼ to Rinaldi's 181¼.

Moore was stripped of his crown by the American National Boxing Association earlier this week but he was announced as the world champion before the fight, witnessed by a capacity crowd of around 14,000. Moore still is recognized as world champion by Florida, New York, and European boxing groups.

Kansas No Match For Iowa, 21-7

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's top-ranked Hawkeyes easily defeated Kansas 21-7 Saturday without displaying any of their usual razzle-dazzle football offense.

Quarterback Wilburn Hollis led Iowa to its sixth straight victory of the season. He scored in the first quarter on a 30-yard run and plunged one yard for a third period touchdown that gave the Hawks a 21-0 lead.

Pointing to its crucial Big Ten conference game with undefeated Minnesota next Saturday, Iowa relied only on basic plays against the Big Eight Conference team.

Kansas, suffering its second loss of the season, was unable to move into Iowa territory until the third quarter. The Jayhawks turned loose with passes in the final period and scored with 1:52 remaining on John Hadl's eight-yard run.

TCU Upsets Baylor, 14-6

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Towering sophomore Guy Sonny Gibbs crumbled undefeated, untied Baylor's hopes by running and passing Texas Christian to a 14-6 upset Saturday.

Gibbs, who operates better in the daytime since he can't see without contact lenses, passed to Buddy Iles for seven yars and one touchdown. Then he ran for 21 yards and passed for 12 in sending the Horned Frogs to their second touchdown following a costly Baylor fumble. He made the score himself with a 2-yard blast.

Baylor, the nation's No. 7 team and unbeaten through five games, was outplayed by a Texas Christian team that reached its height of the season. It knocked Baylor out of a tie for the Southwest Conference lead and kept itself in the running for the title.

Navy Triumphs Over Irish, 14-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Second string quarterback Harry Dietz sparked a fourth quarter touchdown march capped by Joe Bellino's second score of the day that gave Navy a 14-7 victory over underdog Notre Dame Saturday.

Bellino, whose fumble led to Notre Dame's only touchdown,—in the second period, scored from 12 yards out early in the first period, capping an 81-yard drive in which he ground out 74 yards.

The senior halfback from Winchester, Mass., teamed with Dietz and fullback Joe Matalavage midway in the fourth quarter in a 64-yard touchdown drive following a pass interception. It kept No. 4 ranked Navy's record spotless for the year.

Pittsburgh Snaps Syracuse's Winning Streak

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Aroused Pittsburgh shattered Syracuse's 16-game winning streak 10-0 Saturday, whipping the No. 3 team of the nation on a 14-yard touchdown by Jim Traficant and a 38-yard field goal by Fred Cox.

Pitt, a 10-point underdog which had won 2, lost 2 and tied 2 in 6 previous starts, grounded Syracuse's air game with three alert interceptions and recovered three of the Orange's fumbles before 41,872 fans.

It was the first game Syracuse, the No. 1 team of the nation last year, had lost since it bowed to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl after the 1958 season.

Traficant, a sophomore quarterback from Youngstown, Ohio, faked a handoff to fullback Jim Cunningham and ran 14 yards for the Pitt touchdown early in the first period.

The field goal by Cox came at 2:33 of the third period after he had recovered Ernie Davis' fumble on the Syracuse 25.

It's Brother Against Brother In Illinois vs. Michigan Game

CHAMPAIGN—Coach Pete Elliott, whose Illinois football team meets Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday, inherits from his predecessor, Ray Eliot, a record of recent successes against the Wolverines. The one "I", one "E" Eliot bested Michigan seven of the last ten times.

Before 1950, however, Illini were not so successful against Michigan teams which had as backfield stars Pete Elliott and his brother, "Bump" —who Pete now meets as a coaching rival.

Michigan won three of the four games in which Pete Elliott competed against Illini, 19-0 in 1945, 14-7 in 1947, and 28-20 in 1948. The Wolverines lost to Illinois 13-9 in 1946. In the 1947 game, "Bump" gained 40 yards and scored one of the Wolves two touchdowns. In the 1948 contest, Pete threw one touchdown pass as he quarterbacked his team to victory.

Michigan, without its Elliotts, defeated Illini 13-0 in 1949, but success swung to Coach Ray Eliot's Illini during the '50's.

Illinois won almost identical 7-0 victories in 1950 and 1951, but in the snow and cold, and with last-quarter touchdown passes.

The 1952 game marked a famous upset for Eliot's team. Illinois was seeking its first Big Ten victory, and the Wolverines were undefeated in the conference and definite title contenders. Illinois showed a completely revamped offense, with a flanking halfback in the person of end Rocky Ryan. It was 22-0 at the half, and Illinois fought off the hosts for a 22-13 victory.

In 1955, Illini sprung another upset. Michigan, rated the number one team in the nation, came to play before a capacity Illini Dad's Day crowd. Bob Mitchell, an unknown sophomore halfback from Hot Springs, Ark., ran wild that day as Illinois whipped the Wolverines 25-6. Mitchell had another good day the following week against Wisconsin and finished the season with an 8.6 rushing average in Big Ten play, setting a new conference record.

In 1957, another upset-minded Illini crew used the help of junior back L. T. Bonner and a blocked conversion by Gene Cherney to spill the Wolves 20-19. Bonner scored twice, once on a 58-yard run, and Cherney blocked the extra point try which could have tied the game.

Rich Kreitling's brilliant three-touchdown pass-catching display was the whole offensive show for Illini in a 21-8 victory over the Wolverines at Ann Arbor in 1958. Twice Kreitling got loose behind the Wolverine secondary to take passes from John Easterbrook for touchdowns, the first on an 83-yard play, and the second for 60 yards. The third six-pointer was a leaping twisting reception in the "coffin corner" of a pass from quarterback Russ Martin.

Last year, Eliot's final team got off to a 9-0 lead over Michigan but lost 20-15 in one of Illinois' most disheartening games of the season.

Despite late Illini successes, Michigan still leads in the all-time series, 28-17. There never has been a tie between the two teams.

East St. Louis, Freeport And Taylorville Suffer Friday Night Decisions

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —Underdogs tripped East St. Louis, Freeport and Taylorville Friday night. Most other downstate Illinois football powers overwhelmed their foes.

Assumption of East St. Louis, a team that had lost half of its contests, wrecked a 13-game winning streak of the cross-town Flyers, downing them 15-7. The Flyers outscored six previous opponents this season 154-26.

West Aurora hung the first loss on the once-tied Freeport, 20-12, and cleared a big obstacle from West's bid to succeed Freeport as the Big Eight titlist. It was the first defeat for Freeport in Big Eight play since 1958. East Aurora stunned Auburn of Rockford 53-13.

Shelbyville, which handed Taylorville its last setback in 1958, repeated this year, 14-13 and jumped into a first-place tie with the loser in the Mid-State Conference.

Mount Vernon bore down on South Seven championship aims, handing Benton its second loss, 27-7. Centralia in the meantime shattered Marion defenses 52-0.

Seventh victories without interruption were chalked up by the Northwest leader, Rock Island, 21-13 over Washington of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mount Carmel, 21-13 over Lawrenceville; Rock Falls 7-6 over Mendota; Argo, the South Suburban front-runner, 27-13 over Kankakee; Jacksonville 25-6 over Lanphier of Springfield; and Carbondale 34-7 over Harrisburg.

Rock Falls won the southwest division title of the North Central Conference while Ottawa did the same in the northeast division by checking DeKalb, 13-7.

Robinson hugged its Eastern division leadership tighter by setting down Marshall 20-12.

Prestige of the Big 12 slipped as East St. Louis' Lincoln walloped Mattoon 45-14. But other Big 12 teams like Decatur redeemed it. Decatur shut out independent Quincy, 20-0 and Urbana edged Danville Schlarman 14-12.

Ohio State Spoils MSU Homecoming, 21-10

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Ohio State's eighth-ranked Buckeyes jolted Michigan State with a secret weapon—a 165-pound halfback who had carried the ball only 10 times all season—and battered the Spartans 21-10 Saturday in a bruising Big Ten football game.

Bob Klein, a 24-year-old sophomore, popped open a scoreless duel with a 46-yard touchdown dash early in the second period. The title-hungry Buckeyes, charged up by the breakdown in the Michigan State defense, blocked a punt eight plays later and gobbled up a second touchdown.

The Buckeyes added a third quarter touchdown on a 25-yard pass from quarterback Tom Matte to end Bob Middleton and ruined the day for the 76,520 homecoming fans.

Michigan State, the nation's 10th ranked team, fumbled away two scoring chances and missed another score when end Lonnie Sanders dropped a pass in the end zone.

REWARD FOR DRINK

Harold Stainer, a reporter, got drunk a year ago at the expense of the State of Illinois to demonstrate the effects of drinking on driving an automobile.

He guzzled six 12-ounce cans of beer in 40 minutes.

Stainer won $30 in a newspaper writing contest for his story. He also shared a $100 prize with cameraman Ed Wotjas from the National Foundation for Highway Safety, Inc.

Unbeaten Gophers Pound K-State, 48-7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)— Undefeated Minnesota, hurtling toward its Big Ten showdown with Iowa next week, mauled defenseless Kansas State 48-7 Saturday for its sixth straight victory.

The sixth-ranked Gophers turned the game into a routine workout for their first-place conference battle and possible national title game with Iowa.

State hit the scoring column in the final 60 seconds on a 40-yard pass from John Solmos to Willis Crenshaw.

A 79-yard drive in nine plays midway through the first quarter set off Minnesota's touchdown calvacade that dealt Kansas State its sixth consecutive defeat.

Joe Salem delivered the Gophers' first touchdown on an 11-yard rollout. He was followed by Jim Rogers' touchdown smash from the one and Larry Johnson from the two and again from the one for a 27-0 Minnesota lead at intermission.

Illinois Duck Hunters May Begin At Sunrise

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois duck hunters may start shooting at sunrise, not a half hour before, an Illinois conservation department official said Saturday.

Lewis E. Martin, assistant director, said Illinois has favored the sunrise opening whenever the state had an option. Last year the federal rules limited shooting to sunrise to sunset.

When the rules were issued in August, state were told they could extend the opening to one-half hour before sunrise. On opening day, the season starts at noon.

"The extra half hour is no advantage in Illinois," Martin said. "It's inadvisable to have hunters going out in the dark into the marshes and the blinds. It disturbs and ducks and scares them away. Some southern states do prefer this earlier opening."

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Carry Back, rushing from well off the pace, took the lead at the sixteenth pole and romped to a 3½ length victory in the Garden State, world's richest race, Saturday.

Owner Jack Price had to sweat out a foul claim before it became official.

Carry Back outgamed the unheralded 35-1 field horse, Ambipoise, owned by Robert Lehman, with Mrs. Robert Doter's Guadalcanal third and J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol fourth.

Carry Back, timed in 1:46 2-5 for the mile and a sixteenth, returned $18.40, $11.60 and $7.80.

Jockey Larry Adams, aboard Ambiopoise, claimed Carry Back bore in on him in the stretch and lodged a foul protest.

CASEY WON'T RETIRE

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, ousted as New York Yankee manager because of his age, scoffed at retirement Saturday and said:

"I got so many calls offering jobs that I'll spend the next three or four weeks deciding which to accept.

"I've had lots of calls, including calls from baseball clubs. I've had offers in radio and television. They came from all over, including New York, New England, Boston—all over."

Arcaro Pilots Kelso To Top $$ At Aqueduct

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, with Eddie Arcaro looking back in the home stretch for competition that never developed, golloped to an American record Saturday as he won the 2-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct by 3½ lengths.

Don Poggio was second, 10 lengths ahead of Bald Eagle. It was another 15 lengths back to the fourth horse, Dotted Swiss.

The sixth stakes triumph in a row and the eighth victory in nine starts this year for Kelso probably insured him enough votes for 1960 horse of the year honors.

Arcaro registered his ninth Gold Cup victory as the 3-year-old son of Your Host-Maid Of Flight by Count Fleet, soundly trounced seven rivals.

The time was 3:19 2-5 on a track made sloppy by heavy overnight and morning rains. The old Aqueduct track mark of 3:22 1-5 was set last Oct. 31 when Sword Dancer, Arcaro up, clinched the horse of the year title by whipping Round Table in the Gold Cup. The American mark of 3:20 2-5 was set by Nashua, when he won his second consecutive Gold Cup —Arcaro up both times—in 1956 at Belmont.

Kelso, owned by the Bohemia Stable of Mrs. Richard C. DuPont, was the heavy favorite of the crowd of 36,146 and paid $3.60, $2.80 and $2.20.

Illini Victory The Second In 40 Years At Lafayette, Indiana

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)— Massive Illinois shook loose halfback Marshall Starks for two touchdowns, sent in specialist Gerald Wood for two conversions and took Purdue out of the Big Ten race, 14-12, Saturday.

Illinois softened up the Purdue defense with hard drives of fullback Bill Brown and crisp passes from quarterback John Easterbrook to end Ed O'Bradovich.

Purdue got off to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a one-yard keeper by quarterback Bernie Allen. Brown blocked Allen's attempted conversion kick.

The Illini, looking like the team that was supposed to win the Big Ten title, marched 70 yards with the second half kickoff, with Easterbrook completing passes to O'Bradovich for 12 yards and to Joe Krakowski for 10 and 8. Starks zipped the last 11.

Illinois held for downs on its 3-yard mark in the third quarter, then scored in the fourth on Starks' 11-yard run, set up by Easterbrook passes to O'Bradovich and Starks.

Allen got Purdue started to its final touchdown with a 25-yard keeper play, hit Jim Tiller with passes of 10 and 28 yards, then carried the last yard himself. Purdue had to go for a two-point conversion and Tiller was stopped short by the Illinois center Darrell Dedecker and guard Joe Wendryhoski.

Purdue's defeat was its first at home in its last 13 games and its first by Illinois anywhere in the last seven years.

Wood has converted 18 extra points without a miss.

O'Bradovich's contributions included interception of an Allen pass on the Illinois 3 late in the second quarter, along with most of his team's punting.

The Illinois team, pre-season favorite to win the Big Ten title, still has a chance to tie if Iowa loses its two games.

The statistics were almost as closes as the final score. Illinois made 18 first downs, to Purdue's 17. It made 279 yards from scrimmage to Purdue's 289.

Workhorse Bill Brown picked up 97 yards in 25 carries and Starks got 48 in 10 rushes. Fullback Willie Jones of Purdue carried 18 times for 68 yards, and Tiller nine times for 53.

Easterbrook completed eight of 18 passes for 98 yards, Allen four of 11 for 69 yards, and each had one intercepted.

Crimson Frosh Edge Hannibal For 5th Win, 6-0

Jacksonville High's freshman squad registered its fifth win in six starts Saturday morning on the home field against Hannibal, 6-0.

Coach Bernie Gregory's winners scored in the third quarter on a 10 yard pass from Tom Stanford to Joe Baptist, who ran the remaining 30 yards to paydirt. Don Carter added the PAT but it was nullified as an offsides penalty moved the ball back five yards. Stanford passed to Tim Dennis on the second try but Dennis was stopped short.

The Crimsons made a goal line stand following their kickoff to Hannibal, who was halted on the JHS eight yard line. Jacksonville took over with 1:30 remaining and ran out the clock.

Jacksonville is now gameless until it plays a final contest of the season at Auburn November 7.

Bakken's Field Goal Gives Badgers 16-13 Win Over Michigan

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Jim Bakken came off the bench with 1:58 remaining and booted a 19-yard field goal, boosting Wisconsin to a 16-13 victory over Michigan Saturday in a Big Ten thriller.

Bakken's perfect placement came on the 14th play of a drive started on the Wisconsin six.

Then Michigan took the kickoff and marched to the Wisconsin 10. Quarterback Dave Glinka was tossed for a 10-yard loss to the 20 and the Wolverines up quickly for a field goal try.

Wisconsin, squaring its conference record at 2-2, went 69 yards in six plays with the opening kickoff for a 6-0 lead. Sophomore quarterback sensation Ron Miller climaxed the advance with a one-yard sneak.

Michigan tied the count before the first period ended by recovering a fumble on the Wisconsin eight and then sending Dave Raimey into the end zone.

Raimey scored on a 12-yard burst in the second quarter after a pass interception had given Michigan the ball on the Wisconsin 30.

Wisconsin began an 81-yard touchdown march late in the third period with third string quarterback John Fabry finally going over from the one at 2:37 of the final quarter.

Findley And Carrott In Strenuous Battle For Congress Seat

An election day "countdown" began yesterday in West Central Illinois with candidates and voters engaged in the nerve-jangling game of waiting it out until Tuesday, Nov. 8.

With political tides surging higher, one contest looms among the rest in this section of the state—the congressional battle between Paul Findley, Republican, and Montgomery B. Carrott, Democrat, in the 20th District.

Because their battleground covers a 14-county area, these men who want to go to Washington are waging a fight that would do credit to a much larger territory, for its intensity and interest.

Discuss Numerous Issues

Findley and Carrott are banging away at a number of issues—farm legislation, inflation, flood control projects, the records of the two presidential candidates in the official positions they now occupy.

They have swung back and forth the big district, talking with citizens and speaking at scores of gatherings. The congressional cangatherings. The congressional canvocations in this city. They have engaged in debates on television. Their faces on billboards have become familiar to thousands of citizens.

Findley, publisher of the Pike County Republican at Pittsfield, and Carrott, an automobile dealer at Quincy, are seeking the post now held by Mrs. Edna Simpson of Carrollton, widow of the late Congressman Sid Simpson.

Legislative Race Active

Occupying another prominent place in the election spotlight is the race for three legislative jobs in the 49th district, who will be chosen from four candidates in the field. Harris Rowe, Republican, of Jacksonville is one of the candidates.

Other contestants for the General Assembly are H. B. Ihnen, Republican of Quincy; Carl H. Wittmond, Democrat, Brussels, and W. Roy Donohoo, Democrat, Pittsfield. Ihnen and Wittmond are at present serving in the legislature.

Four Morgan county offices will be at stake Nov. 8.

Harry E. Thompson, Republican, and Homer E. Baptist, Democrat, are rivals for County Commissioner.

All of the candidates for county offices are entering the final week of the campaign with stepped up vigor.

Over 600 Absentees

The county clerk's office yesterday was a place of great activity as dozens of absentee voters made application or cast ballots in advance of the election.

Absentee applications have passed the 600 mark and may reach 700 by next Saturday, Nov. 5, the final day for applying in person for absentee ballots. These include Morgan county military personnel in all parts of the world, whose air mailed ballots are arriving at the office of County Clerk Louise Coop; citizens who will be out of the county election day, and persons who are physically unable to visit the polls, as attested by medical affidavits.

The county clerk's office will remain open all day next Saturday, Nov. 5, to accomodate those voting by the absentee method. The office will close at 4:30 p.m., instead of the usual noon hour.

The Robbins property is improved with a five room frame house and a small shed. Auctioneers for the sale were Tieman Brothers. B. G. Colburn was attorney for the seller.

A section of property contained in the estate of the late Louis Ridder located in Alexander was sold at 1 p.m. to Fred Hermes. Mr. Hermes offered $8,100 for the property. It is improved with a five room frame house, barn, two-car garage and chicken house. The chattel property also sold at the auction sold well according to word received Saturday evening. Nixon Discusses Conservation And Resources

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday that he believed the past decade eventually would be recognized as one in which conservation and resources development were advanced "on a scale unmatched in our history."

The Republican presidential candidate made the assertion in a position paper on natural resources, the latest of a series of such statements of his expnded views to be issued in the campaign.

Nixon said his aim as president would be "intensified conservation and management for the better use of each of our resources."

He said such programs would be essential to meet the demands "from our exploding population" at home and the demands of America's free world allies abroad.

Democrats have been sharply critical of the Eisenhower administration's resources conservation policies in such fields as water pollution, reclamation, and public power projects.

The vice president did not promise any big new federal spending programs in these fields. But he did pledge vigorous joint action with federal, local government and private participation, to assure that the nation kept abreast of its natural resources needs.

The paper said "the Eisenhower-Nixon administration now has under way the greatest water conservation program in our history" at a cost now exceeding one billion dollars a year.

Nixon claimed 49 new reclamation starts in the administration compared to 38 in the Truman years. He conceded that 24 of the Eisenhower starts were forced by Democratic-controlled congresses, but said that 20 of the Truman projects were begun with Republican congresses.

State Politicians Hurl Charges, Countercharges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The politicking of Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Chicago's suburbs drew the spotlight Saturday, but the state-level campaign infighting went on unabated.

Nixon, the Republican standard bearer, heaped criticism on his rival, Sen. John B. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and some Illinois Republican candidates followed his example.

Samuel W. Witwer, the GOP challenger of Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas, sent out a statement from his Chicago campaign headquarters saying, "The anti-business bias of Sen. Douglas hits the little guy the hardest." He said that "governmental red tape is driving small businessmen crazy, increasing their costs, and actually hurting productivity."

Douglas, making the shopping plaza rounds near Chicago, drummed his list of legislative accomplishments, including some which have opposed aims of business.

"My fight on the overseas airline subsidies has resulted in a cut of $43 million a year," he said. "My lead in fighting the gas bill and its defeat have saved the consumers at least $600 million a year."

Gov. William G. Stratton was busy as Nixon's host on the presidential candidate's Illinois stumping swing, but had six Sunday meetings lined up in Chicago and nearby communities.

His opponent, Otto Kerner, asserted that he would push a proposal for purchase by the state of St. Luke's hospital properties on Chicago's Near South Side as temporary hospital space for bedridden, mentally handicapped children.

Kerner said the hospital facilities have an insured value of approximately $12 million, but is available on a purchase option for about $1.5 million.

The candidates for attorney general disagreed about further investigation of the Orville Hodge scandal and Stratton's former administrative assistant who was convicted of income tax evasion.

The Democratic aspirant, William Clark, said he intends to pursue both cases if he is elected.

In Springfield, the Republican incumbent, William L. Guild, said Clark was "talking through his hat, and said the Democratic contender should promise to investigate Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley, the Chicago police department, and "other major Chicago scandals of recent date."

He said, "We have brought Hodge to justice and we've collected every cent he stole, and we are in court seeking to ascertain if any state laws have been violated by Mr. Downey."

Hodge, a former Republican state auditor, is serving a prison term for embezzlement of state funds.

CANDIDATES VIEWS ON MANY ISSUES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether they were truly confident or not, both presidential camps resounded this week with predictions of victory.

They filled the air, too, with arguments — some new, some warmed over.

The range covered national prestige, the chance of a recession, which party is the party of progress, and which candidate is a man to trust: Democrat John F. Kennedy or Republican Richard M. Nixon.

Also through the air came a few eggs and tomatoes plus one glass of whisky, tossed on or toward the candidates or their supporters.

Optimism, Etc.

Nixon — "The American people have finally caught up with the campaign of our opponent. They don't like it, and they're supporting ours."

Kennedy—"We're going to beat Mr. Nixon."

Vice-presidential nominee Henry Cabot Lodge—"I think they (the Democrats) are a little worried because their campaign hit its peak last week and we're pulling ahead of them."

Thomas E. Dewey, who lost the presidency to Harry S. Truman 12 years ago—"I threw away my crystal ball in 1948."

Crowds and Odds

Kennedy undoubtedly could take encouragement from the roaring, tempestuous reception given him by New York City crowds.

There was reason for Nixon to be happy about the way people turned out to greet him in Michigan, a closely contested state where it had appeared Kennedy might get the nod.

Ohio, another of the big crucual states, warmed Nixon's heart with great new welcomes. It had done much the same earlier for Kennedy.

National professional gambling odds, which shift, on Friday made Kennedy an 8-5 favorite, meaning you'd have to put up $8 on Kennedy to collect $5 if he wins.

Quotes on Prestige

Nixon—"It is a sad spectacle, a sorry spectacle, one of the sorriest spectacles in the history of American politics, when a man tries to get elected president of the United States by running down the United States all over the world."

Kennedy — "This administration does not trust the people. It has kept the unpleasant truth from them in order to convince them that, as Mr. Nixon says, they never had it so good."

Recession Likely?

Kennedy—He said that under the Republicans the country apparently was entering "our third recession in six years . . . and I say we can't afford another recession."

Nixon—"If America does head into a recession—and I am positive there is no real reason for it, it will be because Mr. Kennedy and his spokesmen talked us into it."

CUBAN SITUATION AT-A-GLANCE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAVANA—Contingent of 1,450 U.S. Marines arriving at Guantanamo naval base in eastern Cuba: U. S. government says they're only staying for weekend of rest and recreation. Marines' arrival expected to prompt new charges by Prime Minister Fidel Castro of U. S. invasion.

CAIRO — Egyptian correspondent quotes Castro as saying Cubans are not such "idiots" as to attempt seizing Guantanamo by force and giving Washington pretext to interfere in Cuban internal affairs.

MOSCOW — Tass calls rest and recreation "laughable pretext" for sending Marines. Soviet news agency also distributes its own version of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's statement to Cuban newsmen saying promise of Communist rocket aid to Cuba is "symbolic." Some Americans in Moscow see this as slightly pulling rug from under Castro.

UNITED NATIONS—Guantanamo Marine landing expected to be issue when Cuba presses aggression charges against United States on Monday.

WASHINGTON—U. S. authorities plan to issue details next week to support their charges that vast quantities of Soviet-bloc arms are being sent to Cuba. United States also asks arms probe by Organization of American States.

Link Alton Man— Police Receive Lead In Walgreen Burglary

Jacksonville police uncovered a valuable lead in the Walgreen Drug Store burglary last Thursday late Saturday night. Donald E. Dillon, 27, formerly of Jacksonville, is being held in Alton on another charge but has been linked with the Walgreen burglary and three other local burglaries by a woman companion for the past two years. Other burglaries are: Jesse's Lounge, West State Tavern and White's Donut shop.

Police uncovered the lead after a tip Saturday and ordered Dillon to be picked up by Alton police. Alton authorities had already taken Dillon into custody on another charge. Police officers talked with Dillon in Alton but said he would not admit any connection with the Jacksonville burglaries.

Dillon's lover was taken into custody in Jacksonville late Saturday after a full-scale search. She reportedly told officers she lived with Dillon for the past two years and knew of his part in the local burglaries. Police obtained search warrants and recovered several items of loot taken from the Walgreen store last Thursday.

Police officers obtained statements from Dillon's lover Saturday evening. State's Attorney Charles J. Ryan and Thomas C. Rose, assistant state's attorney, were called into the investigation late Saturday.

Dillon has a long record of arrests in the Alton area and will be investigated further. It was not immediately know whether local authorities will ask that Dillon be brought to Jacksonville to face charges or be prosecuted on pending charges in Alton.

Halloween Parade At 7 P.M. Monday

Jacksonville's business district will resemble a huge Hollywood movie set, or a chapter from a fairyland tale, as hundreds of colorful "characters" parade Monday evening in celebration of Halloween.

More than 135 prizes have been contributed by merchants and will be distributed to the winners of the various classes.

Clowns and comic strip characters will have their sections in the parade. Witches will be there too. Farmers, cowboys, bridal couples, and other characters will be in the line of march.

Masqueraders will line up at 6:30 p.m. on South Church street between State street and College avenue. The march toward the business district will start promptly at 7 p.m.

The marchers will move on State street to the public square, circle the square, and continue on West State at Dunlap Court, where the reviewing stand will be located. The Jacksonville High school and Routt High school bands, plus fire engines and other features, will enliven the line of march.

According to police reports a car driven by Clifton heading east on Beecher collided with autos belonging to Verlin R. Rolf of Bluffs and John D. Shiloh, 311 East Beecher, both of which were parked at the side of the street.

80 To 100 Million Tons Needed To Feed World

WASHINGTON (AP)—To feed the world adequately, the Agriculture Department estimates that an additional 80 to 100 million tons of food would have to move into consumption annually.

That would be an increase of about five per cent and it would only take care of today's problem. Another 25 million tons would have to be added each year to meet expected population increases.

Such a demand far exceeds the stockpile of surplus foods now stored in this country.

The Agriculture Department says that, contrary to popular belief, there are no "starving millions." There are, however, many hungry people around the world. The department says there are even more people living on unsatisfactory diets.

The department, in a booklet describing the government's food-for-peace program, says: "A better-fed world is an achievable goal, but one that will be difficult to reach. It calls for major efforts to increase food production in deficit areas. It calls also for major efforts to distribute more food from the surplus areas."

Some of the countries of Africa and Latin America are fairly self-sufficient and the Communist bloc produces the bulk of its food supplies or goes without, the department says.

2 Maine Women Candidates Make Political History

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Political history is being made Down East these days by two women waging a stiff but ladylike battle for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

On one side is chic, silver-haired Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 62, the reigning queen of American politics and the only woman ever elected to both the House and the Senate.

On the other hand is Lucia Cormier, 48, an ex-teacher, business woman, and for 12 years a respected member of the Maine Legislature.

Never before has the nation witnessed a senatorial contest between two women.

And how does the typical Maine voter view all this? He views it with a "ho-hum," or something to that effect.

One reason is that he's seldom the demonstrative type. Another may be that despite the determined campaigning of Mrs. Smith and Miss Cormier, there are no great burning issues between them.

In her talks before civic groups, receptions and the like, Mrs. Smith defends the nation's missile program, blasts Khrushchev and praises the foreign policy of the Eisenhower administration.

Miss Cormier puts her emphasis on federal aid to education and medical care for the aged through the Social Security system

Occasionally, she has tried needling her opponent.

When Congress adjourned, Mrs. Smith began planning the exhaustive daybreak-to-midnight kind of campaign that she has used to bowl over male opponents ever since 1940, when she first ran for the congressional seat of her late husband.

Stratton For Governor

Primarily because of his fine record in office, we recommend the re-election of William G. Stratton as Governor.

The people of Jacksonville, the home of three important state welfare institutions, know of Stratton's keen interest in the proper administration of the state's business. They know, too, that he has steadily sought to improve conditions for the care of the mentally ill and other wards of the state.

Few governors in the past have built such a solid record of accomplishment as Stratton has in the last eight years. Few, indeed, are the men who know the problems of state government as well as Stratton.

Gov. Stratton has spearheaded several major efforts to modernize the state constitution. Under his administration new records have been set for highway construction, and yet state fiscal affairs have been kept on a sound basis.

Stratton has done much to attract industry to Illinois and to spur its economic growth. He has held the line against tax increases. No other state in the middle-west has as low state taxes per capita income.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

PARIS (AP) — Darryl Zanuck, one of Hollywood's more renowned expatriates, said he fled the town when agents started telling producers how to make movies.

"I saw it coming," says the onetime boss of 20th Century-Fox, "and I knew it was time to get out.

"It was bad enough when actors turned producers, but now agents . . . .It's more than I can take."

Zanuck, now making independent movies, says he wouldn't boss a studio again for a million dollars a week.

"There's no creativity left in that job. The stars or their agents want to tell you what to do. They are more interested in making a good deal than a good picture."

Zanuck says he has never been happier.

On "The Big Gamble," his current production, Zanuck kept the same hours as the actors and director—on the set every day. If the script needed rewriting, the onetime tycoon was there to do the job himself.

He loves tough locations. "The Big Gamble" covered a 30,000-mile location jaunt that stretched from Africa's Ivory Coast to London.

"We slept in tents in the jungle and even had guards who were on parole for cannibalism," he says. "But somehow I felt more content than I would back in Hollywood."

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — All European movie labor is not cheap, says producer Bill Perlberg, who shot part of "The Counterfeit Tratiro" in this wide-open city.

One of the scenes in the Bill Holden movie calls for a shot of the Herbertstrasse, the red light district of Hamburg. Perlberg wanted to use the actual locale, but the price was too high.

"It was cheaper for us to build our own Herbertstrasse and staff it with regular extra girls than to pay the price asked to tie up business for a day or two," says Perlberg.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —Tourist guides on Copenhagen's sight-seeing buses never fail to comment on the Hollywood movie "Hans Christian Andersen."

"As soon as we found out that it was Danny Kaye playing Danny Kaye, and not Hans Christian Andersen, we enjoyed it," is the general spiel.

LONDON (AP) — David Wayne wound up his work in "The Big Gamble" here to start rehearsals for a new Broadway play, "White Alice."

"The electronic age has even infiltrated the theater," says Wayne of the play. "I play a scientist stationed on top of the world, in conflict with the military over who is going to push the button first to start a nuclear war.

"I took the part because it is the first play I have ever seen which brings as much action to the stage as the camera does to the movie screen.

"This is done through a gigantic radar screen which shows the advance of the enemy missiles and aircraft as vividly as if cameras were focused on the craft. I may become the first actor in history to have scenes stolen from him electronically."

FINDING THE WAY

A Time for Us to Think

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written For NEA

"Your mind may not be much good," writes James Thurber, "but it's all you've got to misunderstand with. The inspirationalists are fast confusing life to the point where it will be impossible to think about something without thinking about something and when that happens all is lost."

Thereupon Thurber launches into a series of witty essays which reveal the human predicament.

Even the wisest and most sane of men find it difficult in these times to keep a sense of balance. Most of us honestly scratch our heads, saying, "I don't know what to think."

But we are driven to think and not underestimate the process.

The Scriptures urge us not to be weary in well-doing, but weariness is easy to come upon just now. The world moves from crisis to crisis and we may be tempted to try to escape from it, or default, by virtue of incompetence.

We can have some sympathy with the Irishman who was weary of the religious debates and sighed, "Sure and I wish that you were all atheists so that you'd live like Christians."

He was matched by the fellow who thought you could get the Lord and the devil together.

It's not time to resign from the human race. One of humanity's attributes is the ability to think. This involves the risk of misunderstanding. It hazards defeat and failure. It presupposes that a mind can grow. It believes that understanding can mature. It hopes that a man can mature from a false assumption to a new grasp of truth.

Once we saw as children. Growing up means putting away the childish and accepting the challenge to meet today's problems with the courage we applaud in our forefathers.

It will take more than thought to redeem mankind. Yet it also requires that redeemed men shall reason together with that constraint of discipline which keeps us from running away. It is the decision not to underestimate our minds.

If there are some things needed to think about, consider these:

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Washington's elite, black tie, first night audience for the play based on newsman Allen Drury's best selling book, "Advise and Consent," showed the capital is a hick town by Broadway standards.

Here was a local boy making good in a spectacular way. Yet, the six-foot-four, pink cheeked and handsome young novelist walked in the aisles and stood in the lobby between sets almost unrecognized by all save his old newspaper friends.

And at the end of the play, when there were cries of "Author! Author!" intended to bring Drury before the footlights and give him a tribute, the Washington audience didn't know what was expected of them or what to do to get an encore and another thrill.

They just walked out of the theater and went home.

THE U.S. COUNCIL of the International Chamber of Commerce has published a glossary to help businessmen identify international organizations by their initials.

"No French diplomat would appear in the 'NU,' the booklet explains. "The French word for 'naked' is 'nu', so Frenchmen appear properly clad in the 'ONU'. "

Do Your Housework in an Hour a Day? It's Easy —if your family can stand it

Can a woman who runs a household of five without a maid or cleaning woman do all her housework in an hour a day?

In a recent issue of one of the women's magazines there was an article about a housewife who boasts that she does just that — "excusin' " Saturday when she spends the day doing general cleaning.

It sounds miraculous—until you read how she accomplishes all this. Then the light begins to dawn.

Her husband does the meal planning, marketing and cooking.

She has an electric dishwasher to do the dishes.

Her father—whom she includes as a member of her household of five—eats all of his meals out, including breakfast. The family eats Sunday dinner in a cafeteria.

And this "super" housekeeper admits that the two boys never go in the living room or dining room, which keeps those two rooms neat and tidy.

Also, she says that she doesn't stop a chore to answer her telephone. She just lets it ring until she is finished with whatever she is doing. Of course, that may inconvenience anyone who is trying to get hold of her. But it does't slow down the chores she does on the run in order to finish in an hour.

You can probably be just such a whiz at housework if you can persuade your husband that he is a better meal planner, grocery shopper and cook than you are; if you can get rid of the job of washing and ironing; if you can close up part of the house against daily use; if you can ignore the telephone; and if you care to go to bed at nine-thirty every night in order to be in condition to run through the little work you've left for yourself in an hour every morning.

But probably you can't squeeze your family into that kind of routine. Most housewives can't and few would even want to

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next president will face problems which are the direct opposite of those Franklin D. Roosevelt encountered when he took office in 1933.

The president in 1961 will work on domestic dilemmas which involve only comparatively mild changes, but abroad he must cope with a world going through an intense revolutionary period.

The world Roosevelt faced in 1933 was not revolutionary. Communism was contained within the Soviet frontiers. The great colonial powers still held their colonies. No upheavals were then in sight.

But at home Roosevelt took charge of a nation flat on its back in depression, fresh out of steam and ideas, and not only dreadfully in need of drastic treatment but ready and anxious for it.

Roosevelt's remedy was the New Deal. This was revolutionary only in the sense of being so intensely different from the slow pace of social and economic adjustments which had preceded it in the 20th century.

This is not the task facing Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Sen. John F. Kennedy here in this country which, more or less, is fat and prosperous.

Since prosperity is not a period for rocking the boat, the nation is neither anxious for nor thinking of extreme measures. Neither candidate is offering anything radically new.

Abroad it's different. The next president not only will have to handle communism as it exists in Russia, Eastern Europe and Asia but must seek some way to induce the new nations, newly freed from colonialism, to stay away from communism.

Those new nations, backward and poor, all want to come abreast of the 20th century in a rush. Coping with them and their problems and desires—particularly in competition with Communism—will tax all the ingenuity of the man who moves into the White House in January.

Whether or not in the 1960s this country has a medical care program for the aged financed through Social Security—as Kennedy says it should be and Nixon says it shouldn't—is hardly a revolutionary question.

The answer, of course, will be of great importance to millions of aged people. But if Kennedy is elected and has his way, linking medical care for the aged to Social Security will still be only an extension of the Social Security system.

It cannot be considered in the same league—for newness and its far-reaching implications — with the creation of the Social Security system itself by Congress in 1935.

Whether—under Kennedy or Nixon—more or less would be spent on defense, school construction, development of natural resources or the farm program is a matter of degree and not of essential difference.

It's for this reason much of the presidential campaign has revolved around the personalities of the two men rather than around their programs or the issues they talk of.

Savor Goodness of Age, Is Advice of Retired Pastor

BY MARIE DAERR

"Even when we are 70 or 80, we can get rid of habits and thoughts that only harm us."

A retired pastor, president of a golden-age club and one of the liveliest people in his city, said this to me.

"Reaching the so-called golden years doesn't give a person the license to pry into the affairs of younger members of the family, to be demanding, to be untidy, to complain.

"We can change ourselves, at any age, so that, instead of being restless, we are at peace," he stated.

Another rule this man of God follows is: "Appreciate yourself."

"Many of us run ourselves down," he said. "We owe ourselves a quantity of respect and liking.

"And let's put more value on old things," the pastor said to me. "Sometimes we think that, merely because something is old, it no longer is any good.

"I'm talking about old books. I mean homes that may not be up-to-the-minute, but which are convenient and cozy.

"I'm talking about old furniture that often has a charm and offers comfort which modern pieces lack. Most important, let us appreciate old friends and the old virtues of faith, hope and charity."

Just because you have reached what is called the golden years doesn't mean you should retire into a shell, is this minister's opinion.

"We must not close our eyes to what is going on, or think that a bad situation can't be licked," he said.

"Let's develop more tolerance. If we belong to a golden-age club, we have a fine chance to do this.

Turkeys Will Be Abundant, But Prices to Edge Higher

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food & Markets Editor

Turkeys are leaders on the November list of plentiful foods. But prices will go up a little, according to market experts—about 5 cents a pound.

There will be far more large birds (12 pounds up) than smaller ones (8 to 10 pounds) this year. Most of this crop will be of the white breeds. Turkey growers are pushing them and consumers seem to go along. One reason given is that the white breeds don't have dark pin feathers.

Today, the turkey industry is largely set up for frozen birds. Therefore you will most likely buy a frozen one. Some markets are offering to defrost the birds for customers to save them the labor and fuss of doing it at home.

The industry claims that their production line for cleaning and preparing frozen birds is so fast that your frozen turkey is actually fresher than the nonfrozen ones from nearby ranches. However, in many American homes fresh-killed turkey is still the favorite.

Also, some experienced butchers insist that the white breeds are not as rich in flavor as the bronze breeds. They explain that the bronze type are not force-fed like the whites, and that the longer feeding and developing period produces more tender and better tasting meat.

Morgan-Scott Home Bureau Elects Officers For 1961

Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat of the Jersey College unit was reelected president of the Morgan-Scott Home Bureau Thursday when the 24th annual meeting was held at the Masonic Temple.

Not present when the photograph was taken were Mrs. Olin Clark, Winchester; secretary, and Mrs. Opal Waggener, Winchester, director.

The morning period was devoted to reports by the officers and the advisers. Mrs. Daniel Deitrick and Mrs. Chester A. Thomason conducted the memorial service. Mrs. Donald Houston gave a report on the National Home Demonstration Council held in Wisconsin and Mrs. Fred Carter gave the report of the nominating committee.

The afternoon speaker was Ross Randolph, warden of the Menard penitentiary. Roses were presented to those members who had perfect attendance records for the year and Mrs. Charles Gibson installed the new officers.

New Law Protects Cropland, Acreage Allotment Record

Any farmer who diverts cropland to permanent cover under a conservation reserve contract may be protected in his cropland and acreage allotment history for an additional period equal to the period the land was under contract, Mr. Wilbur C. Williams, Chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today.

Previously, these acreages have been protected only for the life of the conservation reserve contract. Doubling of this period is provided under a new law passed at the recent session of Congress and signed by the President in September.

The legislation provides that cropland which is diverted from an allotment crop to a conservation use under this program shall continue to be classed as cropland for twice the period of the contract and, for purposes of determining future allotments, shall be considered, as though it had been planted to the commodity.

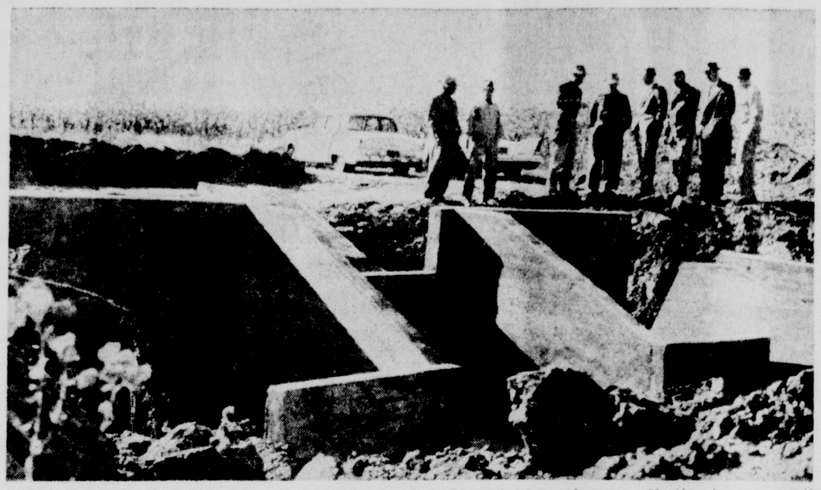

This new provision, Mr. Williams said, does not apply to contracts termed before the end of the period for which the contract was originally signed.

Contracts under the conservation reserve program range from 3 to 10 years. ASC officials hope that new legislation will encourage participants in the program to maintain former allotment crop acreage in vegetation cover for at least twice as long and perhaps permanently.

SC Board Arranges Tour For Pastors

In appreciation of the help the ministers of Morgan County have contributed toward soil and water conservation, the local district board Monday arranged a tour of some projects to show the pastors what is being accomplished.

The date, however, proved to be a very busy day for ministers and most of them were forced to send their regrets.

Soybean Cake Called 'Best Fish Bait Yet'

Commercial fishing in the Illinois river the past spring and summer was the best in many years, says Grover (Honky) Robinson of Florence.

"There's more catfish in the river than in a long time and carp catches were high. In fact, they got too good in April and the price for carp in the rough dropped as low as 4 cents a pound at some markets. But generally speaking carp has sold well throughout the season at 6 to 7 cents, which allows them to be retailed at 25 cents a pound. Catfish have stayed steady, at 25 cents a pound in the rough.

"We don't catch many soft shells, mostly all snappers. There used to be a good premium on softshells but the demand is so great that snappers bring just as much these days. During the season they brought 15 cents in the rough, so they can be sold at 65 cents dressed."

Plenty of Frogs

But if there are fewer turtles, bull frogs are showing a healthy increase. They are currently protected by a short season, with hook and line the only legal method of capture, and a possession limit of eight.

"I believe commercial bull frog fishing should be permitted now in the Illinois river valley. Why should we eat shipped in frog legs from Louisiana when we have so many better ones right here at home?"

Robinson, now 48 years old and a commercial fisherman all his life caught his biggest haul of fish in one net this season—620 pounds of carp. This was a wing net, 12 feet long and three feet in diameter. But the holding section of the net was only slightly more than four feet long.

"They were simply packed in there like sardines. I couldn't raise the net, and had to go for help. Usually you can dump out the fish by just upending the net and shaking it, but this time it was so jammed packed full that I had to take them out one or two at a time. Took me more than an hour to empty it."

Three Big Helps

"I started fishing back in the oar days. My uncles on my mother's side were fisherman and I took after them. Pulling a set of oars all day takes it out of you. The first outboard motors weren't too adapted to commercial fishing, but the makers have them down pat now. You can do anything with them."

Many riverman claim Ribinson can truly do anything with an outboard motor. They say he is the only man they ever saw who can set a wing net without touching an oar.

He made the first nylon net 10 years ago.

Still Using It

"And do you know that I still have that net. And it looks as though it's just as good as new. I only tar it once a year, and that's all there is to it. With cotton nets you have to raise them every two weeks or so, dry them, and tar them, and then let them dry again. They'll go to pieces in a hurry if you don't keep an eye on them. So they're out of the water a lot of the time, and you waste so much time raising them and then resetting. I believe 10 nylon nets will, all the year around, catch more than 30 cotton nets. And, of course, with a lot less work."

The cake made by squeezing the oil out of soybeans is the best fish bait "ever invented," Robinson believes.

"I don't know why, because it doesn't even smell bad. We used to use a lot of cottonseed cake, and it seemed to work O.K. But the fish turn up their nose at it now, and go for soybean cake. Which suits everybody, as soybean cake at 5 cents a pound is a lot cheaper than cottonseed. I still use some cheese rinds and trimmings, but I think I'll quit. Cheese bait costs 10 cents a pound and certainly didn't come up to bean cake this year."

Grundy Farmer Finds Sheep Profitable

URBANA — A farmer from Grundy County, Illinois, has already learned what many other farmers are finding out—that sheep are a good investment on farms limited by labor and capital.

Nolan Nelson of Morris told Friday's audience at the University of Illinois Sheep Day that his 55 ewes grossed an average of $39.86 this year. That adds up to $2,192.30.

He said that "with a small amount of labor and capital, we haven't found any other livestock program that works this well for us."

Nelson marketed 90 lambs from the 55 grade Columbia ewes. The ewes were bred so that lambs began arriving in late January and February. This allowed plenty of time to get them ready for the early market.

Nelson said he feeds a creep feed as soon as the lambs will eat. Then he feeds a commercial pelleted feed until they reach market weight. He's found that lambs start eating pellets earlier than a mixed feed and they eat more and stay on feed regardless of weather.

During the day Nelson pastures the ewes, keeping the lambs in drylot. In the way the lambs rest and eat all day instead of chasing after their mothers. Keeping lambs in drylot also prevents worm problems.

Nelson markets his lambs as soon as they reach 85 pounds. This year he sold his first lambs on May 18 for 27 cents a pound. He sold the last four on July 27 at 21½ cents.

4-H Achievement Day Program Here Nov. 5

This year's Morgan County 4-H Achievement Day program, again sponsored by Jacksonville merchants, will be held in the Illinois theatre Saturday morning.

The doors will open at 8:15 and a movie will be shown at 8:45. All 4-H members, their parents and friends are invited to attend.

Floyd Cox, president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, will extend the welcome and the response will be made by Gordon Heaton, president of the 4-H Federation. The 4-H King and Queen of 1960, Ronald Walpole of the North Side Ag club, and Myrna Martin of the Ebenezer Girls, will lead the pledge to the American flag and the 4-H pledge to the nation.

Extension Service personnel will distribute pins and certificates won by 4-H club members and leaders during the past year. The premiums won in the 4-H fair held in conjunction with the 1960 4-H junior fair also will be distributed at this time.

Tom Rusinek, secretary of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, will introduce the seven Morgan County youths who made outstanding achievements in 4-H work. They will receive six savings bonds and a wrist watch given by Jacksonville business firms.

The merchants are also providing a large number of door prizes to be awarded at the close of the morning program.

Saturday's program will conclude a highly successful 4-H club year in Morgan County. There were 432 active members enrolled in 27 home economics clubs and 208 participated in the programs of 10 agriculture clubs.

New Chemicals Spur Growth In Chickens

New mixtures of chemical nutrients developed at the University of Illinois have enabled chicks to grow three times faster than ever before.

This seems incredible, but not to researchers H. M. Scott and B. Connor Johnson of the College of Agriculture. They explain that the trouble with all previous such ration is simply this: The chicks don't like them. So they don't eat nearly as much as they could.

How did Scott and Johnson tempt them to eat their fill? The clue came from basic research on the nutritional needs of the chick. They discovered that previous high-energy rations for chicks did not contain adequate quantities of the essential amino acids in the right proportions. Amino acids are the "building blocks" of protein.

Patiently they worked out more exact requirements for each amino acid, and then made up rations with generally higher levels. They soon found that the chicks did best on a diet containing about 25 percent protein, not 20 percent as previously thought.

Presented at last with a near-ideal ration, the chicks responded by eating more and growing at the astonishing rate of 13 grams a day. The previous best gain was 4 grams. What makes this growth even more surprising is that neither the Illinois researchers nor anyone else had previously managed to get chicks to grow at all on chemicals "off the shelf."

Feeding these laboratory diets may seem far removed from feeding practical poultry rations. And so it is. But Scott explains that it's the best way to find out what food constituents the chicks need, and in what proportions. In research, as in other occupations, "the longest way round is often the shortest way home."

In any case, poultry rations are becoming more and more complex. Today's farm rations are the experimental diets of a decade ago. Scott and Johnson will "work back" and apply the new levels of amino acids to practical poultry rations.

If they succeed, a new era in poultry feeding may well be beginning.

What Do English Birds Not Have?

By Emma Mae Leonhard

The Scotch girl's knowledge of Maeterlinck's "BluebBird" has undoubtedly caused her to idealize our Bluebird. The stories of love and happiness which she associated with the bird and glamorized it, but she was also fascinated with our real bird, the bird with the sky-blue wings and back and the red breast.

Undoubtedly most of us look longer and listen more intently when we chance upon a Bluebird. Why? Perhaps it's because there aren't very many of them. The sween plaintiveness of the Bluebird's song may enhance the bird in our eyes. Or do we measure the beauty of its blueness with that of the sky and its redness with that of the evening sky?

Hummingbird Show

We worked a long time to locate a Ruby-throated Hummingbird for our guest. Then one displayed itself in perfect manner; it sat on the top of a tall weed and flamed its ruby-jeweled throat as regularly as does the warning signal at an airport. All of us were fascinated with the unusual show. We still talk about it.

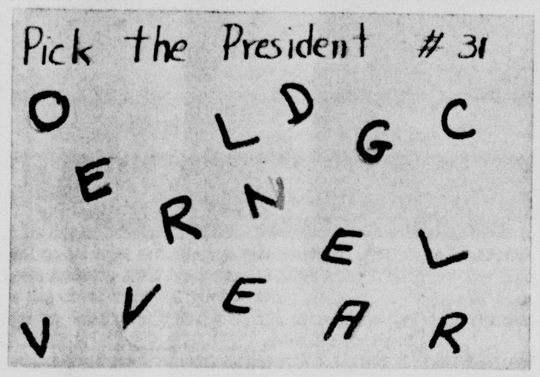

Which of the three birds really impressed the Scotch girl the most? It was the Cardinal, the one that impressed the rest of us the least.

We naturally miss the most of those things which we continually have with us. If the Cardinal were taken away from us, we would feel a blank loneliness for it.

Was it patriotism or was it just human loneliness that caused me to miss the Cardinal in England—or perhaps would cause any American to miss it in England? Whatever it was, England can't boast of a Cardinal, a Summer Tanager, a Bluebird, of a Hummingbird

ROCKETS AND SPACE—

Electronic Flip Flop

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

(NASA PHOTO)

An "electronic summersault" was performed successfully in space for the first time by a Project Mercury Big Joe test capsule on Wednesday, September 9, 1959.

An electronic stabilization (steadying) and control system was responsible for this feat. This system was built for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota. The summersault was necessary to get the capsule in the right position to re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

The Big Joe capsule was boosted into space small end first by an Atlas. Once the capsule had separated from the missile in space the sommersault was performed to put the capsule in the position to re-enter the atmosphere broad end first.

This way the broad heat shield created air drag as the capsule hit the atmosphere thus slowing it down so that it didn't burn up in the atmosphere like a meteor. The broad end also builds up a shock wave that keeps the air from rubbing against the capsule and heating it up.

Following this test of the unmanned Big Joe capsule, Minneapolis-Honeywell began building a similar but more complicated stabilization system for the manned Project Mercury capsule. This capsule will take one of the seven Project Mercury astronauts into orbit some time next year and bring him back alive. The picture at the top of this article is an artist's idea of how this capsule would appear if it were seen from space while orbiting over Cuba.

The Big Joe capsule was maneuvered by nitrogen reaction jets. These jets send out spurts of nitrogen in response to orders from the Honeywell electronic attitude (position in orbit) stabilization control. This device consisted of extremely precise gyroscopes, accelerometers and complex electronic circuits.

In the September 9, 1959, test this system had the critical task of controlling the attitude of the capsule after it had separated from its booster. Whenever the capsule started to behave any differently than it was supposed to, it got out of line with the pre-set instruments. This caused the instruments to send out messages to the Nitrogen jet on the side toward which the capsule was drifting. When the jet received this message it spurted just long enough to correct the capsule's drift.

Do You Have TV Gremlins?

By Joseph A. Smith

Does your T.V. set sometimes suffer from automobile ignition, diathermy, and miscellaneous other unwanted streaks and lines on top of your most enjoyed program?

Do taxicab and police radios break in on your favorite quiz show and razors or motors play havoc with reception in general?

Don't get rash and take an axe to the set or chase to the local, often unjustly-accused Ham Operator with a big stick. Instead, investing just a bit in some filtering may very well solve your problems while not appreciably affecting the incoming signal.

Interference to T.V. sets can come in by two distinct routes: 1. The 117-volt A.C. house power line and, 2. via the T.V. antenna and lead-in wires. Let's briefly cover each and you, my reader, can help Pop cure his T.V.I. (TV Interference.)

These types of troubles can be minimized in several ways: (I might add here don't try to do this yourself; get either your dad or the local serviceman to do it correctly.)

FIRST: Be sure the radio chassis or T.V. set (providing it isn't an A.C.-D.C. type set) is grounded to a good ground either to a water pipe or a pipe driven into the earth. Use a pipe ground clamp on the pipe and keep the wire between the pipe and set as short and direct as possible.

SECOND: Install a line filter between the floor plug (or other 117 volt A.C. socket) and the T.V. set (or radio.) These filters can be bought quite inexpensively and are well worth the money where line noises are bad.

THIRD: Install a simple High-Pass Filter between the T.V. set antenna terminals and the lead-in ribbon from the antenna. Install it directly at the receiver and keep the lead between the filter and the set's antenna terminals as short as possible. Such High-Pass type T.V.I. filters range in cost from around 99c to $3.50. Usually, the more simple one will do the job, but where the interence is more severe the better one will have to be used.

In most instances a correctly installed Hi-Pass type filter will not affect the incoming T.V. signal much. Such simple filters can be built quite cheaply by anyone with an electrical mind, but for the average person it would still be wiser to have your dad or a serviceman do the actual installing.

RAIN DANCE

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)— A group of Prescott businessmen don Indian costumes each year to perform the Smoki snake dance for the benefit of tourists.

The dances, which are supposed to bring rain, really paid off this year. It rained on the second day of the 3-day celebration and the Smokis collected on a $2,000 rain insurance policy.

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 4: Buggy Ride

Miss Martha always brought lunch for her horse, and the children took turns giving him his noon-day meal of yellow corn. He was always sure to get a clean, cold drink at the school well where a big bucket was always standing by for all kinds of uses . . . even a fire if there should chance to be one.

On some days, Miss Martha drove Geronimo to a buggy, and the children looked forward to another big treat:

When school let out at four, he was hitched to the stout, black buggy, and as many as could climb in . . . or even find a "toe-hold" on the back end, were permitted to ride if they went Miss Martha's way. Some sat in the seat beside her and usually two more sat in the bed at her feet and leaned against the buckboard.

The bigger boys stood on behind wherever they could stick on and held on to the top which was folded back to accommodate them. When every one was aboard, away they went, and my . . . was it fun!

Miss Martha never even considered unloading any of her crowd, even at the top of the long, clay hill, for the breeching strops were stout . . . and Geronimo's feet were sure and steady.

No wonder every child loved him, and no wonder they loved happy, carefree Miss Martha. She was not only a capable teacher, but a pal and friend at all times to every child in school!

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

PRICE OF FARMLAND, IS IT TOO HIGH?

Prices of farmland in Illinois have been going in both directions—up and down. But the downs have slightly outweighed the ups in the past year or so. According to a recent report by the USDA, average prices declined 2 percent in the year ended last July.

This figure may hide more than it reveals. Brokers say that some recent sales were made at $100 to $200 an acre less than the lands might have brought a year or two ago. At the same time, other sales show prices still going up. These diverse trends often occur in the same county.

In general, central Illinois seems to show the greatest price weakness. The drouth in this area in 1959 was a price-depressing factor. Prices in northern and southern Illinois show less evidence of weakness. Northern Illinois had a bumper corn crop in 1959. The effects of nonfarm influences are also strong in the northern part of the state. New technology has greatly increased the productivity of farmland in the southern third of the state.

Many people have asked, "Is the price of farmland too high?" A counter question would be, "Is farmland too high for what?"

For Various Reasons

People buy farmland for many different purposes. Buying a farm is for some farmers essentially a way of buying a job. This is especially true in areas where land values are relatively low. They may be willing to accept a low rate of return on their investment in order to be assured of having jobs that they like.

Some people buy farmland as an investment. They balance the return from their farms against returns from other investments, such as corporation stocks, bonds and nonfarm real estate.

Some people buy land as a speculation, or as a hedge against inflation. This has paid off very well over the past 25 years. The few who bought substantial amounts of land "on a shoestring" 10 to 20 years ago have become well to do. By contrast, those who put their savings into bonds and similar securities have little to show for their thrift.

Increase Unit Size

Many farmers buy land to build up the size of their operations to more profitable levels. In 1959, 45 percent of all purchases were for this purpose. The income-producing ability of land is usually much greater when it is used for farm enlargment than when it is used in an independent operation.

Considering the various reasons that people have for buying land, a price may be too high for one person and a bargain for another.

Farmland values in Illinois will likely move in the same direction and about as fast as values in other states.

For the nation as a whole, current prices for farmland are unusually high in relation to farm income. The value of farmland per acre is about 11 times the annual farm income per acre. Land was similarly high three times in the past 50 years—in 1911, 1921-22 and 1931-33. The first of these years, 1911, was in the farm prosperity period of 1910-14 that has since become parity standard The other two periods, by contrast, were years when farm prices and income were at extreme low points.

Another comparative figure is called the "farm capital turnover." This is a ratio of land value to annual net farm income. This ratio has averaged over 8 to 1 in the past three years, or about the same as in 1910-14. In the 1920s it tended to stabilize at around 7 to 1, and in the 1930s at 6½ to 1.

Young German Farmer Visits Morgan County

Hans Sandritter, 21, a slender package of alert, blue-eyed friendliness, will leave Morgan County Saturday after spending two weeks as a guest in the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Heaton and family near Lynnville.

A native of southwestern Germany, where his father is the superintendent of a 350 acre grain and livestock farm, Sandritter has been in the United States since the middle of May. He has lived with farm families in Vermont, Missouri and Illinois under the International Farm Youth Exchange since then and will sail for home on Nov. 19.

He plans to be a vocational agriculture instructor. He has completed his high school work, one year of university study, and the required two years of on-the-job farm training. He goes back for one more year of technical training and two years of pedagogy to gain his teaching certificate.

SANDRITTER SPEAKS English well. He studied it in school for nine years and he always liked to talk to the English and American tourists who visit his section of Germany in ever-increasing numbers each year.

Curious and eager to learn, he met as many people as he could during his stay in Morgan County. Particularly interested in the 4-H movement, which has no real counterpart in his native land, he attended the annual meeting of the Western Illinois 4-H Camp association meeting held here last week.

HANS SEEMS to have the makings of a 100% conscientious teacher who feels he can't learn enough to pass on to his pupils. He's shown here talking over rural youth activities with Miss Shirley Franklin, assistant home adviser, and Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser.

In reply to inquires Hans said the 350 acre farm his father manages produces "winter and summer wheat, winter and summer barley, summer rye, summer oats, sugar beets and potatoes. We make silage out of most of our potatoes, for hog feed. We milk 60 cows and a high part of their feed is the wet and dried pulp we get back from the sugar beet processing factory."

"Coming here has been nice, almost wonderful," he says. "I hope that sometime I can greet you when you come to my home."

Advises Federal Loan On 1960 Corn Crop

URBANA—A University of Illinois economist recommends farmers store their corn at harvest if they have storage space.

T. A. Hieronymus reported that very high yields will force some farmers to sell corn at harvest and prices will drop sharply. But prices will show some recovery after harvest.

This year's crop is estimated at 4.25 billion bushels. It will not all be used up so the carryover fill further add to the surplus stocks a year from now.

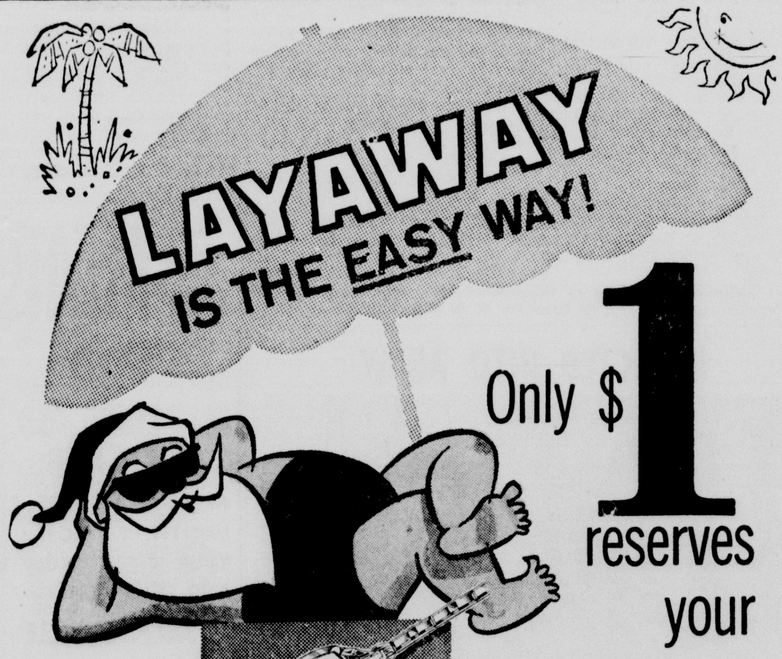

Although prices will drop due to harvest time selling, they should regain some of the loss after the crop is put under cover. Prices will probably get back up to 95 cents a bushel soon after harvest on east central Illinois farms.

Prices may not reach the loan level anytime during the year ahead as a result of the large crop and heavy government selling.

TO SING FOR REFORMATION DAY SERVICE

The Illinois College Chapel Choir, under the direction of Ruth M. Bellatti, will present the music at the Reformation Day Service, to be held in Grace Church, Sunday night at 7:30. The community-wide service has been planned by the Jacksonville Council of Churches. Dr. Gordon E. Michalson, president of MacMurray College will speak on "The Church's One Foundation."

With The Girl Scouts

A very busy and happy week in Girl Scouting has just ended and next week promises to be almost as busy, if not as happy. The reason for our special gaiety last week was the successful Founder's Day dinner held Monday evening with 27 local founders present from our four counties. It was a very special event.

Then, on Wednesday Mrs. Marguerite Dixon and Mrs. Edward Anderson of Jacksonville conducted a holiday craft workshop which was attended by over thirty aspiring Christmas decorators! It was one of the largest workshops held in recent times. The results of their labor are on display in the Scout office and passersby have already offered to purchase these decorations! Come in and see for yourself what Brownies and Intermediates can make out of aluminum foil pie plates, gilded cones, mason jar lids, etc., to decorate for Christmas. These items will be kept in the office for all to look at. Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Anderson have patterns and directions for the more difficult pieces. Others can be made by just looking at the example.

Among those who registered for the workshop and attended the two hour session were: Mrs. Elsie Clark and Mrs. Connie Kirchner of White Hall; Miss Kay Hierman and Mrs. Judy Briggs of Virginia; Mrs. Lester Points, Mrs. Chester Timmons and Mrs. Betty Turner of Waverly.

From Carrollton, Mrs. L. A. Hardaway, Mrs. Lela Thien, Mrs. Bud Roth, Mrs. Robert Pitsch, Mrs. Mike Kane, Mrs. Addie Voiles, Mrs. Helen Meneley, Mrs. Norma Price, Mrs. Berna Lee Stevens.

Jacksonville Group

Another successful event last week was the meeting of the Jacksonville Neighborhood which was held at the Scout office Thursday morning. Mrs. Frank Clay, new neighborhood chairman, presided at the meeting which was attended by leaders from nearly all of the city schools. A workshop on International Friendship was presented by Mrs. Hartman and the group was divided into smaller units to give reports on Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding throughout the world. It was planned that at the next meeting reports not given at this meeting will be heard as well as a showing of the filmstrip "Our Cabana". Mrs. George Trutter will report on Girl Scout hospitality centers around the world. In December this group will invite a guest speaker to continue the discussion of Girl Scouting on the international level.

Basic Training

On Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 1 and 2, another very important training session will be held for new leaders of Brownies and Intermediates. These schools for new leaders are essential to help adult volunteers begin work with their troops. Since many new troops have been organized this past month, this training program has been set up for this time for your benefit. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with an hour off for lunch. Sessions will be held at the Scout office in Jacksonville. Be sure to attend or send a representative.

Three committees of the Board of Directors will meet this coming week:

Camp committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Perk Chumley, 340 East Michigan, Wednesday morning, Nov. 2, at 9:30 o'clock. Mrs. Howard Houlette of Greenfield is chairman.

Public Relations committee, Mrs. George McNamara chairman, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 4, at the Scout office.

Members of the program committee, Mrs. William Gross chairman, will convene at Hamilton's Cafe at 11:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 4, for their meeting.

On Thursday, Nov. 3, there will be another session of delegate training for National Council at 9:30 a.m. at the Scout office. Visitors to the convention, which will be held in St. Louis Nov. 14-18, may want to attend this session. Since the national meeting is nearby, many will want to take advantage of the opportunity of seeing Girl Scouting at work on a national level and visit a day or two. Each visitor is asked to register at the registration desk at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel on the day she wishes to visit, present her membership card and $2 for each day. Questions to be voted on at the convention will be discussed Thursday.

Troop Activities

Brownie Troop No. 98 of Jefferson school enjoyed a wiener roast and observance of the 100th birthday of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, Thursday evening at the Girl Scout cabin on Lake Jacksonville. Mrs. Ralph Mudd, troop leader, and Mrs. Norlis Hodge accompanied the girls. Mrs. Mudd had baked and decorated a large birthday cake honoring Juliette Low and talked to the girls about the founder. All 12 members of the troop were present. They wanted to spend an overnight camping session at Shagbark and were told they would have to be Intermediate Girl Scouts first, so then all the talk turned to filling the requirements for becoming Intermediate Scouts as soon as possible! They enjoyed a hike at the camp and collected pine cones for making Christmas decorations.

Members of the 8th grade troop at Jonathan Turner with Miss Mildred Moser of MacMurray College, their leader, enjoyed a Hallowe'en party Wednesday night at the Scout office. Elaborate decorations added to the festiveness of the occasion.

Brownie Troop No. 48 of Franklin school in Jacksonville, Mrs. W. C. Everett and Mrs. Russell Lewis, leaders, had a Hallowe'en party on Monday evening after school in the school cafeteria. A tea was served with the girls pretending to be grown ladies. Punch was served from a hollowed-out pumpkin. The group is working on the tenderfoot requirements and will soon be invested as an Intermediate troop.

We are a United Fund agency.

New Superhighway Program Poses Problem In Supervision

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has an annual budget of $29.5 million and employs, 1,122 engineers, including 150 bridge engineers.

With this engineer force, the bureau is supposed to exercise supervision over the greatest state-federal road building program in history.

Over the past four years the states and the federal government have spent $10 billion on highways and authorized the expenditure of another $10 billion.

Since mid-1956 over 48,000 road contracts have been executed and 10,000 are currently in force.

When the bureau was charged only with the supervision of the regular primary, secondary and urban road programs, its 1,122-man engineer force seemed adequate. This is the program to which the states and the federal government contribute on a 50-50 basis.

But in 1956 Congress set up a huge new program to build 41,000 miles of superhighways over a 20-year period and told the bureau to supervise this program, too, without any increase in engineers. Under this program the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

Bureau engineers have to approve the design, plans and specifications for roads in both programs. Further, they are expected to conduct on-the-spot inspections to see that all is going according to contract.

In the past four years the engineers have inspected over 135,000 miles of highways and 2,900 bridges.

At best, a federal engineer can inspect each job in his district once a month. The inspection may last a day, and in that day he is supposed to check grades, take samples of materials, consult the state's project engineer on special problems, and generally see that the federal government is getting its money's worth.

The federal engineers have to rely heavily on the state's project supervisors and hope the contractor is living up to his agreement.

Breakup of a million-dollar highway at Lordsburg, N. M., indicates that federal engineers can't always tell whether a highway is well built just by looking.

While the federal government is withholding payment of $200,000 on the Lordsburg project, the fact remains that federal engineers gave preliminary approval to the work.

The Bureau of Public Roads did spot the developing land scandals in Massachusetts where selected rights-of-way properties, so the report goes, were overpriced. When the need developed for an investigation, the bureau gave the job to a consulting firm. Critics complained that the federal government shouldn't farm out its investigative chores.

The bureau takes the position that the states have their own inspectors and engineers, and for the federal government to set up a more extensive supervisory system would be a duplication of effort.

The bureau says it does not feel obligated to question state records as a rule, that it assumes these records are accurate and submitted in good faith.

Bertram D. Tallamy, the bureau's chief administrator, put the viewpoint in focus last May when he testified before a congressional subcommittee.

"The bureau and the states act as coordinating agencies. That is required by federal law. The state initiates projects and presents them to the bureau for consideration. After review, if the bureau concurs, there is a complete meeting of the minds as to exactly what is to be accomplished and how. The state has responsibility for construction," Tallamy said.

The bureau does have a projects examination division which is supposed to act as a sort of roving police inspection force. There are 27 people on its staff. With Congress' permission, the bureau hopes to expand the division to 40.

To questions about the adequacy of its supervision, the bureau says other federal agencies are also in the act—the General Accounting Office, the Department of Justice, and Congress.

From the time the General Accounting Office actually audits a state's highway program until reports to Congress, about two years elapse.

The Department of Justice usually acts only when requested to do so by the bureau or upon formal complaint.

Congress began scanning the highway programs last year through the House Roads subcommittee headed by Rep. John Blatnick, D-Minn. It has held two major hearings.

While there is a tendency in Congress to blame the bureau for the ills besetting the highway programs, it must be noted that Congress set up the ground rules, established the state-federal regulationships, and gave to the states the responsibility for actual road building.

Employment Big Issue In Southern Illinois

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Unemployment is a big issue in the 25th Congressional District of Southern Illinois where Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D- Ill., is challenged by State Sen. Gordon Kerr R-Brookport.

Gray, former West Frankfort auto dealer, is basing his bid for a fourth term on "my record of service and my plans for the future."

Kerr, operator of a grocery and a hardware store, has pledged to support current government projects and "any measure that will help my district."

Gray won by more than 22,000 votes in the 15-county district in 1958 and predicts his victory margin Nov. 8 will be more than 12,000 votes.

Kerr concedes he will have to come from behind to win. "Things are picking up for me every day," he said. "I feel I have an excellent chance."

In his campaign, Gray cites federal projects now under way in the district and says he has played a part in directing more than 200 million dollars in federal funds into the area in the last session of Congress. He is a member of the House Public Works Committee.

Gray, 35, said government contracts have provided hundreds of jobs in the district.

"I estimate there were 30,000 unemployed when I came into office in 1954," he said, "there are about 20,000 now." Census reports show the district lost nearly 40,000 persons in the last 10 years. The district now has about 300,000 population.

Kerr, 48, blames area economic problems mainly on a decline in the coal industry. "We're coming out of it," he said.

"We don't want a government handout and we don't want to pull industry away from other areas," he said. "That is un-American."

Both candidates have conducted personalized campaigns, speaking at numerous rallies and shaking hands on every main street in the district.

CIRCUS AT ARMORY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Seven years ago after more than a year's arduous breaking and training, Peggy and Mack MacDonald amazed the circus-going public with something entirely new in elephant acts. The one-foot stand, which is among several specialties that "Opal" is unique in being able to do, was called "great but a lucky break!" by self-appointed critics. Seven years later, after more than tripling her weight, "Opal" still balances her entire weight on one front foot. This year's routine is practically a whole new act.

This and forty other great arenic acts and displays will go to making up the great anniversary year program of the Polack Bros. Circus being held for the purpose of raising funds for erection of a special hospital unit for St. Josephs' Home.

The event is sponsored by the Springfield Knights of Columbus. The show dates are November 11th, 12th, and 13th, in the spacious Springfield State Armory. The reserved seat sale will begin Friday, Nov. 4th at circus headquarters, 124 North 5th, Springfield, Ill.; hours from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 'til 9 p.m. Monday and Friday evenings. The show time will be as follows: Fri. & Sat., Matinees at 2:15 p.m. Evenings at 7:30 p.m.; Sunday Matinee at 2:15 and a twilight show at 5:45 p.m.

Jacksonville To Host C.E.C. Student Conference

Leo Flood

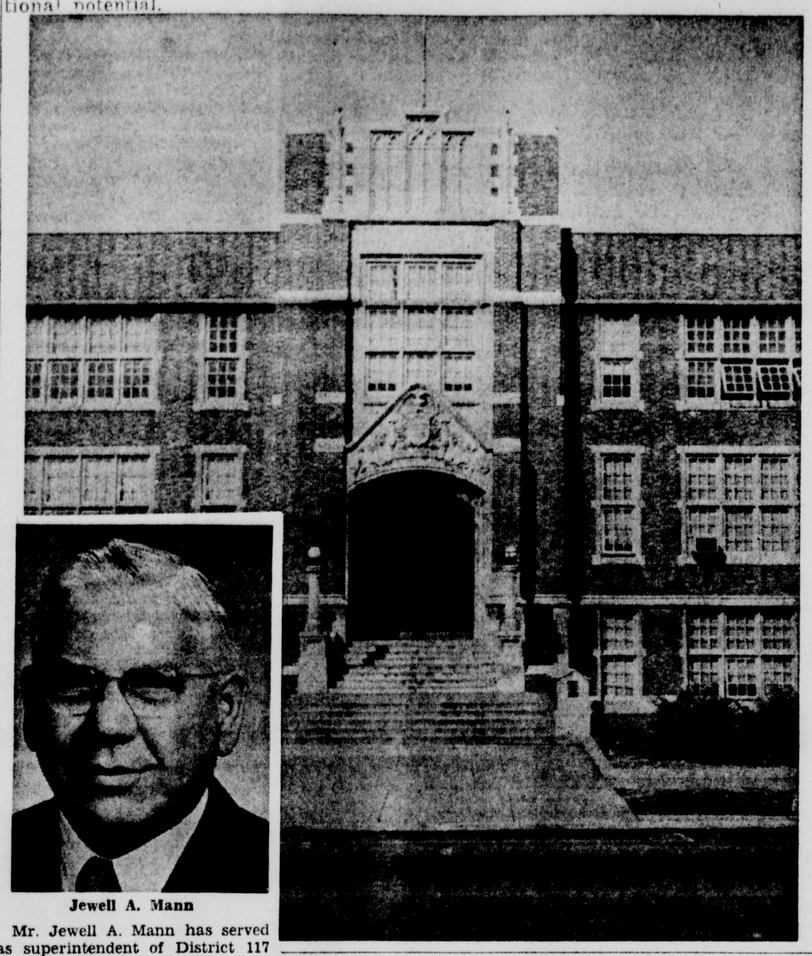

Mr. Leo Flood has served as superintendent of the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School for 49 years. Prior to that time he taught in the school. A residential school setting is provided for about 229 students. Blind and partially seeing children are enrolled in programs which include a formal academic college preparatory course as well as many possibilities in vocational education. The Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School was founded in Jacksonville in 1849.

City Offers Unique Spot For Student Conference

Jacksonville, in addition to its many attractions, holds the unique distinction of being a nationally recognized center of special education. In very few localities in the United States do community members have as many first hand opportunities to know and understand special education. Professional personnel who are employed in special education are also found to be involved in almost every facet of community life.

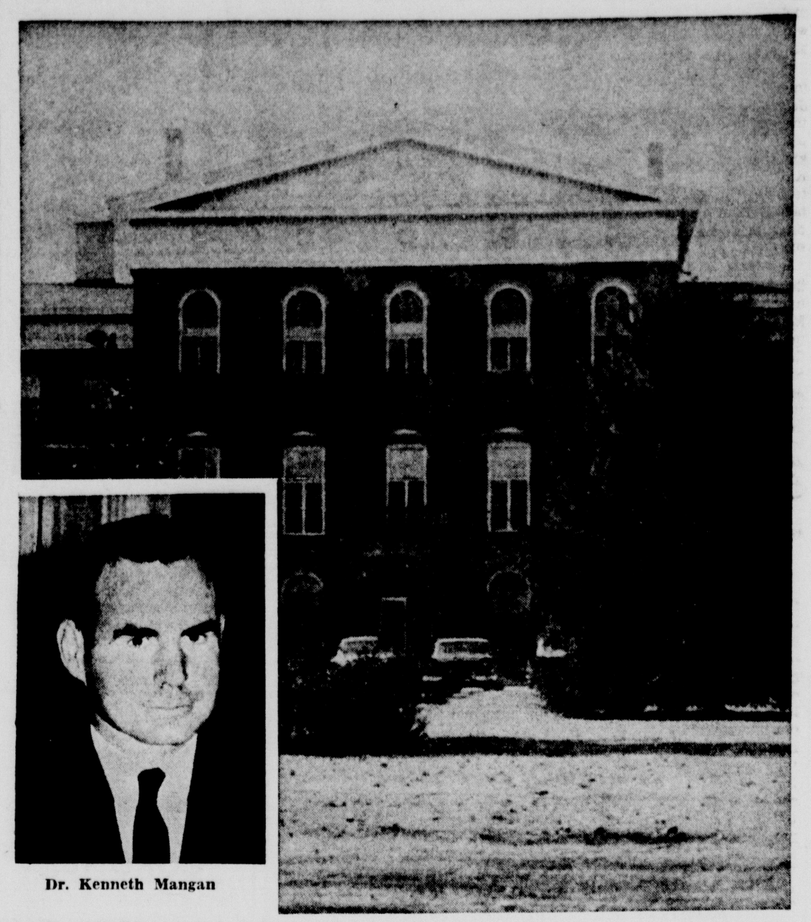

Deaf adults and blind or partially seeing adults in Jacksonville say they do not have many of the problems so frequently reported in the literature because they are so much a part of the community.

The familiarity of the public with the students at the two State Schools and in the public schools has contributed to the kind of understanding which is necessary for the full development of exceptional childrens' academic, social, and vocational potential.

Jewell A. Mann

Mr. Jewell A. Mann has served as superintendent of District 117 the past eight years. The 235 square mile school district provides a kindergarten through grade twelve program for about 4500 students. The Department of Special Services provides for physically handicapped, educable mentally handicapped and mentally superior children, and programs of speech correction, school social work, remedial reading, home and hospital instruction, and school nursing. Over one thousand students are receiving some kind of special services.

Dr. Kenneth Mangan

Dr. Kenneth Mangan is beginning his first year as superintendent of the Illinois School for the Deaf. He brings a varied experience in administration and the education of the deaf to his present position. The school provides a residential school setting for 400 students. The school is unique in that it provides both a manual and an oral department and enrolls deaf as well as children who are hard of hearing. For many years the school was the largest of its kind in the United States. It was established in Jacksonville in 1839.

Bluffs Churches To Hold World Community Day

BLUFFS — World Community Day will be observed in Bluffs and for the entire community on Friday, Nov. 4, at 2:30 p.m. in the Bluffs Methodist church with the ladies of St. John's Lutheran church cooperating in this observance.

Mrs. Harold Oakes and her committee of the Methodist church and Mrs. James Baird and Mrs. Lyle Sucher of the Lutheran church are the planning committee.

Special Education Teaching Field Is Aim Of Conference

Superintendents from three Jacksonville schools will welcome students to the CEC Student Conference November 13-14. This will be the second student conference to be sponsored by the local chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children. On alternate years the Council sponsors the International Fair. Receipts from the Fair are used for the scholarship fund and the student conferences.

Over one hundred high school junior and seniors are expected to be in attendance at the meetings. In all areas of special education, there is a serious shortage of teachers. A recent census indicates that 75 to 80 percent of the exceptional children in Illinois are not receiving the special help which their teachers think they need.

Conference Two Years Ago

The Student Conference in 1958 introduced nearly one hundred high school students to possible careers in special education. A follow-up study found sixteen of the seniors who attended, enrolled last year in special education. Information is being gathered concerning the status of juniors who attended in 1958.

On November 13, the students will gather at Jonathan Turner Junior High School for registration and a full afternoon and evening of information and fun. The afternoon program will include demonstrations, exhibits and a buffet supper. The evening session will provide an opportunity for students to meet prominent persons in the field and to participate in "do-it-yourself" laboratories. A social hour will complete the day's activities.

The visiting students will register at 3:00 p.m. Local organizations are cooperating to provide the buffet dinner for Sunday evening and box lunches for Monday noon.

Monday morning a breakfast will be served at the School for the Deaf by MIS, the older girls' society. This will be followed by visits to classes at both State Schools and the Public Schools. The visit will be climaxed by a final get together for a gym demonstration at the Illinois School for the Deaf.

Local Housing

Housing arrangements are being completed with interested persons in the Jacksonville community. Miss Dolores Berry, general chairman of the Student Conference, has reported that she has received several offers for help in this area. She said that advance registrations are beginning to come in and there is a high interest in the project, especially from those schools which sent students to the last conference.

Mr. William Walsh, president of the local chapter, said that the Sunday afternoon session is open to the general public. He said "The evidence of support for this project is another indication of this community's high regard for the problem of meeting the educational needs of all students. We feel sure that many students will become interested in teaching as a result of this conference. We hope that many of them will go into special education. However, the impact of sending 100 students back to their home towns with a better understanding of exceptional children may be our greatest contribution to the whole problem of individual differences."

Friday Night Scores

Pittsfield 35 Beardstown 6

BEARDSTOWN — Coach Glen Smith's Pittsfield Saukees moved into the lead in the Midwest Conference loop as they handed Beardstown its first loss in league action Friday night, 35-6. The Tigers were plagued with fumbles and pass interceptions as they went down to the defeat.

Pittsfield recovered a fumble on the 23 yard line and four plays later Jerry Harmison punched over for the score. Boyd added the extra point on a run. Beardstown took the kick off and marched 80 yards with Kirchner scoring. Pittsfield then intercepted a Tiger pass on the 22, tackle Curtis Fudge doing the honors, and went in for the second score. Shaw added the PAT.

After a short punt by Beardstown, the Saukees marched to the 2 yard mark from where Boyd dove over for the marker. Shaw again added the point after. Again the Tigers lost the ball with a fumble and the Saukees went 28 yards with Harmison going in from the 3. Barber flipped an 8 yard aerial which was deflected by the Beardstown defenders, and caught by Pebbles who ran 22 yards for the touchdown. Pebbles also ran the point after.

Score by quarters:

Roodhouse 15 Hardin 6

HARDIN—Roodhouse scored the first two times they got their hands on the ball, and then held off the Hardin Tigers for the rest of the Illinois Valley contest to gain a 15-6 victory. The Railroaders took over on the Hardin 45 following a punt, and marched right down to score with Parton sweeping the end from two yards out for the score. The attempted run for the point after was stopped short. Hardin bounced right back to tie it up as they marched 70 yards with Bland scoring from the 4. Hardin then kicked off to Roodhouse and they powered 73 yards scoring on a 12 yard pass from Atwood to his right end.

Mid-way in the third period Bland was attempting to pass for the Indians and was trapped in his own end zone for a safety. Hardin was in the game all the way, as they lost the ball on downs on Roodhouse's 22 and 6 yard stripe. Both teams now have 5-2 records for the season.

Score By Quarters:

Greenfield 33 Winchester 20

WINCHESTER — The Winchester Wildcats almost pulled the upset of the year as they bowed to Coach Don Gustine's Greenfield Tigers in an important Illinois Valley conference contest. The Wildcats were a highly inspired bunch for the Homecoming crowd and led the Tigers at the end of the half and three quarter mark, but Greenfield came through like a true champ to pull the game out in the final stanza and preserve their unmarred record of 7 wins and no defeats.

Greenfield opened the scoring in the first quarter as they scored twice via the aerial route, one on a 2 yard flip by Powell to Wellhausen, and the other a 15 yard pass, Powell to Meyers. Winchester came roaring back with a 20 point output in the second period and forged into the lead. On the first play of the quarter Watt threw a 10 yard pass to Hudson, who ran the remaining 52 yards for the touchdown. Brockhouse ran the extra point. Dolen moved the ball from the 30 to the 1 foot line from where Brockhouse powered in for the TD and followed with the point after. A few minutes later Brockhouse scored again, this time from the 2, and the Wildcats had their 20-13 lead.

In the third quarter Wellhausen scored for the Tigers from the 2, but Winchester still led, 20-19. Then in the final frame Greenfield broke loose with two TD's and a safety to ice the contest. Meyer scored the leading marker on an 18 yard jaunt and then after Winchester held on their own 2, the Tigers caught a Wildcat ball carrier in the end zone for a two point play. Wellhausen scored the final touchdown on an 8 yard dash.

Score By Quarters:

Bluffs 41 Petersburg 0

BLUFFS — The Bluffs Bluejays successfully finished their Homecoming activities with a 41-0 romp over the Petersburg Indians. The Bluejays scored in every quarter as Sturgeon and Gregory proved to be the work horses. Sturgeon scored first on a 20 yard romp and Gregory added the point after, and then the boys reversed the situation, with Gregory scoring from the 30, and Sturgeon getting the PAT. In the same frame Sturgeon and Gregory each added another TD, Sturgeon's from 20 yards out and Gregory's from the 35.

Fredricks went 17 yards for the fourth marker and Moore powered 5 yards the final six points. Cox and Moore also added extra points.

Score By Quarters:

Bluffs	7	13	7	14

Triopia 37 Mt. Sterling 0

TRIOPIA—Allen Anderson was the whole show as he scored four touchdowns and one extra point in leading the Triopia Trojans to their sixth straight victory without a defeat Friday night in a non-conference match. The Trojans scored two TD's in the first, second and fourth quarters and their only problem seemed to be in the extra point department, where they got only one in six attempts.

Anderson scored on runs of 15, 15, 9, and 94 yards, while Kershaw punched over from the 2 and Hansmier fired a 30 yard aerial to Kleinschmitt for the other touchdown.

Score by quarters:

Triopia	12	12	0	13
Mt. Sterling	0	0	0	0

Officials: Caldwell, McMahon and Wahl from Jacksonville.

Virden 14 Northwestern 0

PALMYRA—Virden picked up its sixth win in seven outings and continued to lead the MSM conference race, as they defeated the Northwestern Wildcats Friday night, 14-0. Northwestern moved the ball well all evening, but just couldn't get into the end zone.

Virden recovered a fumble in the first quarter on the Wildcats' 20 yard stripe and moved on down to score, with Centko going in from the 3. He also ran the point after.

McKinney capped a sustained drive in the second quarter with a 15 yard run off tackle for the Bulldogs second and final TD. A pass from Centko to Gibson was complete for the PAT and the scoring was finished. The second half was a defensive battle with Northwestern having one touchdown called back via a penalty.

Score by quarters:

Pleasant Hill 21, White Hall 21

WHITE HALL — Pleasant Hill scored 14 points in the fourth quarter Friday night and rode on the shoulders of halfback Taylor Steinburg as they tied the White Hall Maroons, 21-0. Steinburg was the hero for the Raiders, but he couldn't overshadow the fine performance turned in by White Hall's Dick Anthony. Anthony and Steinburg did all the scoring for the two clubs, as they each remained winless. Anthony took a 16 yard pass from Bill Stone in the second quarter and then plunged for the extra point. Steinburg came right back to cap a sustained drive by Pleasant Hill with a one yard plunge and added his own point after.

Anthony then returned the kickoff 93 yards to put the Maroons back into the lead. Pleasant Hill scored early in the second period on a 2 yard pass from Smith to Steinburg, and a Helm to Robertson pass accounted for the PAT. Anthony countered again climaxing another drive with a QB sneak from 1 yard out. Blake ran the PAT.

In the closing minutes of the game Steinburg led a march which ended with Taylor scoring on the last play of the game. With all the time gone it was only a matter of whether Pleasant Hill could get their extra point to tie the contest, and they gave to to Mr. Reliable, Taylor Steinburg and he powered over for the point after and a tie for the Raiders.

Score by Quarters:

White Hall	0	7	7	7
Pleasant Hill	0	0	7	14

Railroad Man Denies Charge Of CassAttorney

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— A Burlington Railroad attorney Friday denied a charge of collusion with postal authorities that was made by Milton McClure, attorney representing Beardstown, before the Illinois Commerce Commission. The railroad proposes to abandon passenger trains 47 and 48 between Rock Island and St. Louis.

The railroad has said it is losing $111,000 annually on the trains, besides, it said, the trains will lose their revenue from mails because the Post Office plans to carry them by highway truck service.

McClure said the railroad did not object to the loss of this major source of revenue "but probably asked for it" to force the commission's hand.

T. G. Schuster, railroad attorney, denied this and quoted from the testimony of Virgil E. Jones of Chicago, district and traffic manager.

Schuster said Jones was asked if the department was ever requested to remove the mail from the trains.

"Never. They always tried to get more mail," Schuster said Jones replied.

Even if there had been collusion, Schuster said, the trains were already losing $111,000 annually and that made them "candidates for removal" by the commission.

Schuster said the charge of collusion was one "in a parade of horribles you dredge up when the facts are against you."

McClure has accused the railroad by "errors of omission and commission" of creating a situation favoring removal of the trains. At the last hearing he said the railroad operated old coaches. He likened them to stage coaches.

Truck, Car Collide In Winchester

Two vehicles were damaged in a collision Friday afternoon on North Main Street in Winchester. According to reports a car driven by Dr. Bruno Schroetter of Winchester and a pick-up truck driven by Edward Knapp of Winchester collided.

Mrs. Schroetter, a passenger in the Schroetter auto, was taken to Our Saviour's Hospital where she was admitted as a patient. She suffered a broken right arm and other minor injuries.

Why pay up to $30 more for a chainsaw when you get so much more "workability"

with a CLINTON SUPER CHAINSAW

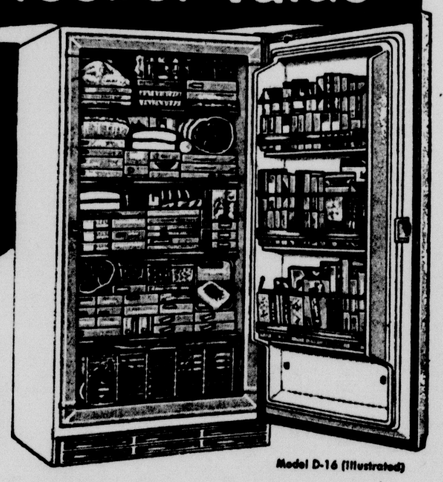

Quick starting... always Easy handling... at all angles

Some chainsaws seem awkward, heavy to hold. Some are lightweight but without sufficient cutting capacity. With the Super, you get both cutting power and ease of handling. Weight is balanced in the chainsaw itself. In operation, this balance works for you—the chainsaw helps feed itself into the cut. With the Super, you get to choose a saw that's custom-suited to your needs. You can have the greater dependability of gearing or the extra speed of direct drive. Select your guide bar—Roller Tip for 20% more speed, or Stellite-Tipped for longest wear. And the low price makes it unquestionably the best chainsaw you can buy.

First Half Barrage Brings Crimsons 25-6 Triumph

Steller Blocking In First Two Quarters Stuns Lanphier Lions

By STAN SPOTTS

Jacksonville High stopped Lanphier's Lions Friday night before a large turnout at the northside field with a deadly blocking and passing attack in the first half for a 25-6 victory. The win was the seventh straight for the undefeated Crimsons while the loss was Lanphier's third against three wins and one tie.

Coach Bob Kraushaar's Jacks also made a good defensive showing throughout the contest but, perhaps, their first half performance was a better one as they kept the Lions in their own territory for the first 24 minutes of play.

The Lions were the first team in five contests to score against JHS and this tally came with 21 seconds left in the game via a 14 yard pass. But the contest was decided in the first two quarters as the Jacks dominated all departments. Lanphier had eight first downs in the non-conference affair and six of them came in the second half.

Jacksonville had 122 yards gained in the air with 103 of the yards coming in the first half. But it was a fine blocking effort that extended the consecutive winning streak to eight straight. JHS blockers mowed down the opposition with authority, especially on end sweeps, to get three scoring drives underway.

The Crimsons had some outstanding play in the line and from linebacker Erland Thady on defense. Thady led all JHS tacklers with 18 followed by Wes Coulter's 12. Joey Wells and Bill Upchurch also turned in a rugged showing with 11 tackles apiece. Jacksonville's line play both ways and the backfield speed was the difference in the two clubs. Lanphier couldn't get going because of its weakness in the offensive blocking assignments.

Early Lead

The Crimsons received to open the game and consumed four minutes on the clock before Ron Yates was forced to punt from the Lion 43. Yates got off a beauty that wound up on the two yard line.

Coach Ed Ransford's Lions picked up a first down but lost it two plays later on a holding penalty. Fullback Tom Kayma quick-kicked from his 23 and the ball rolled down on his own 47. The Crimsons got in gear on a 20 yard pass play from QB Bill Stanford to end Ron Tomhave to the 27. Stanford lost on an option play back to the 33 but Gary Spangenberg made up the difference and a first down with an 18 yard pickup to the 15 on an off tackle slant. Norton covered nine yards to the six where Spangenberg went over on the fifth play of the series with 3:19 remaining. Ken Norton's attempt for the PAT was just barely off and the miss snapped his nine-consecutive boots following touchdowns.

Lanphier failed to go anywhere and Kayma's punt was put in play on the Crimson 44 by Ron Tomhave as the first quarter ended.

2nd Quarter Push

The third play of the new period saw Spangenberg hit end Jack McCarty with a 37 yard pass and scatback Tom Gooding stopped a possible score when he caught McCarty on the 12 yard line of the Lions. The winners were guilty of a 15 yard penalty and the ball went back to the Lion 27. Jacksonville set up a screen pass to Ron Tomhave with Stanford chucking and the play carried to the six before he was brought down.

Co-captain Spangenberg carried over from the six and dove into the end zone for a 12-0 lead with 9:24 showing before halftime. Norton made it 13-0 with an accurate toe. The 56 yard march was capped in five plays.

JHS put a seven-play, 64 yard drive into operation following a Kayma punt to the Crimson 36. On the first play, Ron Yates scampered 34 yards for the longest gain on the march. An 11 yard pass from Stanford to Tomhave plus runs by Yates, Coulter and Spangenberg carried to the Lion 11 where a fourth down and two situation prevailed. The Jacks elected to run and Wes Coulter took it over standing up with 3:00 minutes remaining in the first half.

Scoreless Period

Neither team threatened to score in the third canto although the Crimsons may have had one chance when Bill Upchurch recovered a Rodgerson fumble on the Lions' 38 but the Jacks lost ground and eventually punted.

The Lions, who had been held in their own territory for the first 28:53 playing minutes, finally crossed into JHS territory with 7:07 left in the third period. Lanphier drove to the 31 of the winners but didn't go any further as center Joey Wells, who played an inspired third quarter, recovered an air fumble on the 29. That was the only threat by either team.

Two Tallies in 4th

Both elevens continued their hard-nosed, defensive struggle in the final canto and the final touchdowns of the game came in the final two minutes of play. The Lions' Tom Kayma was attempting a punt from his own 33 but before he could get it away linebacker Erland Thady cracked in and blocked the attempt. Thady recovered the rolling pigskin on the Lion five yard line.

On the first play, the Crimsons pulled an end-around with Tomhave getting the assignment and the touchdown for a 25-0 lead with 1:39 left in the rivalry. The Crimsons were offsides on the PAT and Norton's kick was wide and low.

Lanphier took JHS' kickoff and put its only scoring drive together on the Lion 43. A 15 yard pass from QB Larry Wieties to Tom Rees and a 20 yard run by Tom Kayma plus a 15 yard infraction against the Jacks set up a 14 yard payoff pitch up the middle from Rodgerson to Gooding. David Ford tried for the PAT but the high kick was off to the left.

The Crimsons have not outscored their opponents, 227-26.

Carthage Scores Four TD's In Eight Minutes To Whip Blueboys, 38-12

CARTHAGE—Carthage inserted its ace quarterback, Bob Halsey, into the lineup for the first time with only 8 minutes left in the game and he seemed to be the charm they needed as the Redmen scored a phenomenal three touchdowns in one minute of play to defeat the Illinois College Blueboys 38-13. Halsey has been sidelined with a brain concussion and the Redmen were reluctant to use him, but with Carthage leading only 13 to 7 he broke into the lineup and KO'd the Blueboys in the non-conference tilt.

After trailing 13-0 at half time, IC got back into the contest on a fine 82 yard drive with Harry Sweet scoring from the 1. Ken Mock added the extra point and it was still anyone's game. Frank Harris did a real good job of keeping the Blueboys out of danger with his punting talents, which have been badly missed in the past two contests.

Carthage stayed mainly on the ground in their winning drives as Halsey engineered TD's of 5, 2, 30, and 72 yards. Dick Orendorff gave the IC fans the thrill of the night with a 91 yard kickoff return in the fourth and final quarter. The Blueboys are now at the .500 mark with a 3-3 mark, while Carthage is now 3-4.

SIGHT RARE CHAMOIS

TRENTO, Italy (AP)— A white chamois has been sighted roaming the Italian Alps—the first of the rare mountain antelopes reported in the region for more than 100 years.

The last white chamois reported in the area was shot in 1856. Its hide is preserved in the Trento Museum of Natural History.

COPS ON WHEELS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Some police are patrolling their beats on bicycles because the machines are less conspicious than cars and easier on the feet than walking.

Police Chief F. J. Ruppenthal gave the two-wheel duty to patrolmen in the downtown business and warehouse districts. "The idea of this kind of patrol work is to stay in the dark—and they can do just that on bicycles," the chief said.

HIGHLIGHTS IN CRIMSON-LANPHIER CONTEST

Erland Thady, a 140 pound senior linebacker, is shown knocking halfback Tom Gooding out of bounds after a short gain in Jacksonville's 25-6 victory over the Lions Friday night. Thady was in on 18 tackles for the second time this season in a single game. The total boosted his season's out put to 81. The victory was the seventh this season for the Jacks and the 99th for Coach Bob Kraushaar in his 17 years at JHS. The team effort was also a birthday present for Mr. K, who became a year younger Saturday. Ken Norton (42) is also pictured.

HALFBACK GARY SPANGENBERG, leading scorer for the Crimsons, is shown diving into the end zone for his second touchdown against the Lions. Both tallies came from six yards out. The senior co-captain has now 62 points for the campaign with two games remaining.

THE EASTER DINNER

BY DONALD DOWNES

XXXVI

The Piazza was alive with soldiers and people of the quarter when a jeep carrying the Mont'Altos entered from the east. At the same moment another jeep bringing Luchino, his mother, and Rossini came from the west. They stopped side by side between the fountain and the church.

"Quite, quite mad," Principessa Monte'Alto said to the Contessa Danesi, "Saverio, Felice, and your Luchino. They've gone insane since we went away. Weddings planned with no banns—weddings postponed—and the mothers—weddings are the mothers' province after all—not consulted. I'm quite dizzy, up since dawn, a stonemason's wedding, riding in these ferocious motorized boxes." She pointed to the jeeps.

Luchino's mother laughed. "My dear, if you'd lived with Luchino's father as long as I did, you'd expect anything, anytime! Besides, Ciccio's a special bricklayer. We have been fond of him for so many years. The poor man's boy . . ."

Luchino spotted Ciccio coming into the Piazza with Clementina on one arm and Rosalba on the other and calling his children together.

Rossini and Luchino excused themselves and fetched the whole clan of Massimi and brought them to meet the Mont'Altos.

Ciccio presented Clementina and the children.

"I'm happy to see you again, Romolo," said Contessa Danesi. "Beautiful day for a June wedding."

He looks old and tired and sick, she thought, and smiling, squeezed his wrist as a silent gesture of sympathy.

While the Guastis were being presented to the rest, a 10-wheeled Army truck swung around the corner into the Piazza. Colonel Harrington and Paolo sat beside the driver and a dozen soldiers carrying rifles in the back. "There they are," said Paolo. He pointed toward the wedding party.

The Guastis and Massimos were astonished and a little afraid of such a show of force—the memory of German raids and searches was fresh in their minds. Many of the soldiers idling in the square, with similar fears based on MP raids in Naples or Palermo, eased themselves out of sight. While Paolo and Colonel Harrington were being introduced to the now considerable crowd composed of the four families, a sergeant unloaded his 10 men and a bugler and lined them up at parade rest. At a nod from Harrington, Paolo and Luchino arranged the families in a semicircle, facing the soldiers. Crowds of people, reassured by the friendliness of the officers to the group of civilians they stood with, poured into the Piazza to see the show.

* * *

"No. The Americans are going to decorate someone," he replied.

"Il Signorino!" guessed Ciccio, delighted.

"Okay," said Harrington over his shoulder to the sergeant, at a nod from whom the bugler put his instrument to his lips and blew a call which was unfamiliar to both Harrington and Paolo—and even to the sergeant—for this was a borrowed bugler and his improvisations, while impressive and appropriate, were unidentifiable. But the notes were long and clear, and were, in fact, his martial version of the "Indian Love Call."

When the bugler finished, Colonel Harrington made a proper soldier's right turn to Paolo, whose turn, by contrast, was most unmilitary. "Lieutenant, here is the authorized English version of the citation, and your own Italian translation. Read the Italian."

Paolo saluted and taking the two sheets of paper, stepped forward and read aloud:

"For aiding the struggle of the United States of America and the Allies against the Axis Powers, at great cost and peril to himself and his family; for facilitating the escape of many Allied prisoners; for furnishing the Allied Armies with valuable information concerning the enemy; for exceptional fidelity and loyalty; I am authorized under Circular 7403A of Allied Forces Headquarters and on orders from Headquarters, 15th Army Group, signed by Major General Clinton Jones dated June 6, 1944, to award the Medal of Merit, Civilian Class, to Romolo Massimo."

* * *

Ciccio, incredulous, could not move but glanced at Luchino, who motioned him forward. Frightened, the old man hung back and choked up with tears. Luchino, turning his head so that neither Paolo nor Harrington could see, winked a long, slow wink at Ciccio and grinned. The crowd broke the silence of its astonishment and clapped, calling "Bravo!"

Grabbing Ciccio's arm, Terenzio Rossini half dragged him forward to the spot where Colonel Harrington stood holding the little box containing the medal.

"Romolo Massimo," said Harrington in English, "in the name of the United States of America I award you this medal."

Pinning the medal on Ciccio, the Colonel leaned so far forward that Ciccio mistook the movement for an invitation to the traditional European military embrace and, seizing Harrington by the shoulders, kissed him smackingly on both cheeks—smiling, sniffling and weeping all at once.

Since it was Halloween night, West could not help but double with the words, "Double, double, toil and trouble."

North's redouble was made without benefit of any speech at all.

"I trust West's double is as good as he thinks it is because if he has all five trumps I expect to bring this one home."

South took his ace of diamonds and played three rounds of spades. Then he went after the club suit and when East discarded on the queen of clubs South knew that he had been right in marking West with all five trumps. Now it became a simple matter of mopping up.

He led a fourth club from dummy and ruffed it low. Then he led a diamond. West chose to ruff with the jack but all plays were hopeless. South overruffed with dummy's king; ruffed the last club with his ace of hearts and led a heart.

West made only one trick but East got in the last word. He said:

"Well, South had the toil but West and I will have the trouble."
